NASA Not Ready to Speculate on Apollo 14 Flight

By BILL STOCKTON
AP Science Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston — The scheduled October launch of Apollo 14 appeared in doubt Friday as space agency officials began the difficult job of pinpointing an oxygen tank rupture that canceled the Apollo 13 moon landing.

"It's not definitely off for October but it certainly isn't definitely on for October," space agency administrator Thomas O. Paine told a news conference.

He said a review board will study the problems that imperiled the Apollo 13 moon flight.

"And we're going to have to look very carefully at the whole Apollo program and decide just what fixes we want to make," Paine said.

HE SAID it was "too early to speculate" on the launch date of Apollo 14 until the source of the oxygen tank rupture is determined.

Scientists and engineers must find the cause of the rupture and then answer the question: Can men safely go to the moon again?

Dr. Paine, head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, announced Friday the creation of an Apollo 13 Review Board to direct the inquiry into the oxygen tank rupture last Monday night that almost cost three lives. The astronauts were forced to use the lunar lander as a space lifeboat.

Without the lander's life support systems and engine to fall back on, when they had to abandon the command ship, astronauts James Lovell Jr., Fred Haise Jr. and John Swigert Jr. would have been stranded in space.

PAINE appointed Edgar Cortright, director of Langley Research Center in Virginia, to head the review board.

"The board will consist of senior NASA individuals and experts from other parts of the government," he said.

"I don't think there's any question but what after the events of Apollo 13 we will have to find the cause or cure of this before we'll feel possible to fly a mission to the moon," said Dr. Robert Gilruth, Manned Spacecraft Center director.

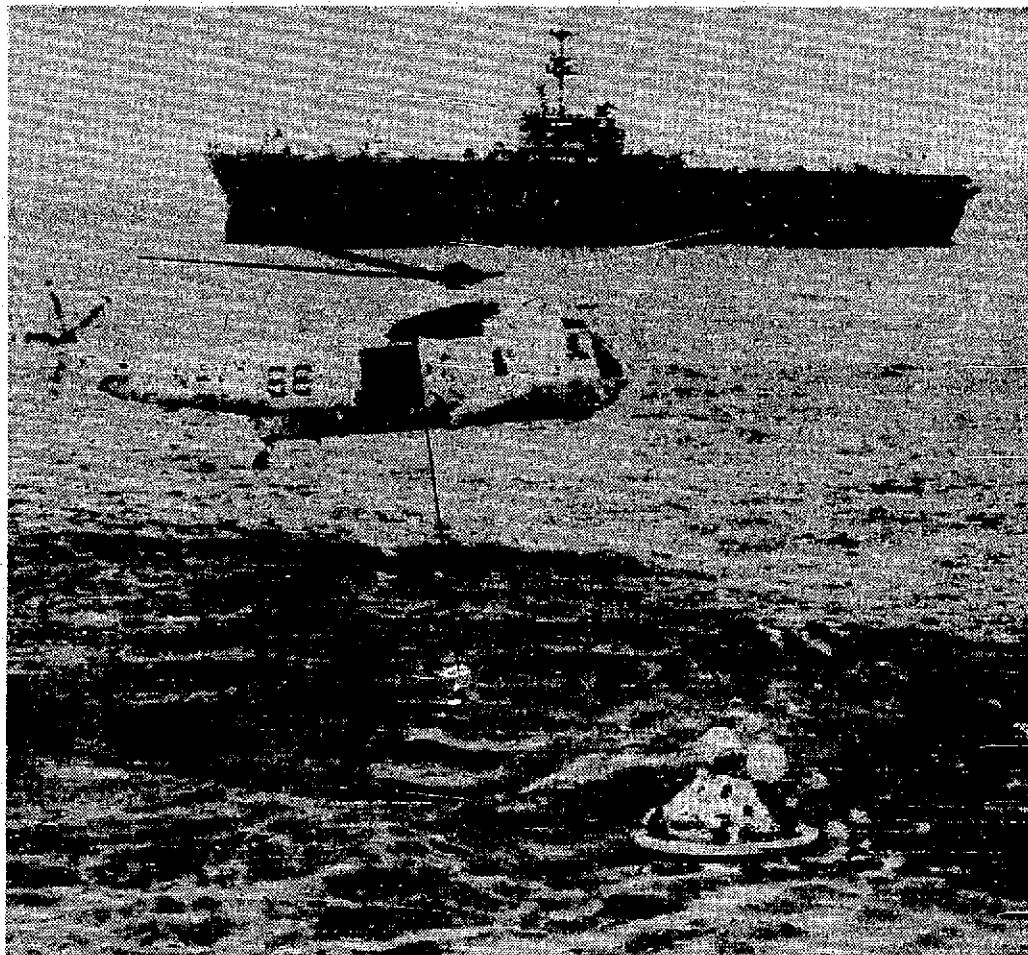

"It's inconceivable that we will fly another mission to the moon without having carefully analyzed and found the cause and applied some change to the spacecraft design that would correct it."

But Dale Meyers, associate NASA administrator said a long delay is unlikely, because the Apollo 13 problem appears to be associated with a single subsystem in the service module that is easily changed.

"That subsystem was relatively simple, compared with the other subsystems in the spacecraft," he said. "I would expect that we will be able to absorb and analyze this data in a way that will bring us to a conclusion of what change to make. I know we must make some change before we commit again to a flight."

ABOARD IWO JIMA — Despite troubles that made their flight the most harrowing in history, the Apollo 13 astronauts made one of the slickest splashdowns ever.

Worn out and bone-cold from their 87-hour battle against death in space, James A. Lovell, John L. Swigert and Fred W. Haise brought their crippled moonship in just 800 yards from the bull's-eye landing zone.

The time was 10:07:40 a.m. PST — a couple hours after daylight local time — and a world that had waited breathlessly for almost four days watched with relief as the men, chilled from the minus-zero cold of space, fell into the warm South Pacific.

"Man," said rookie astronaut Haise, "it sure is nice to be warm."

"It was so damn cold," added Swigert, another rookie who took the flight at the last minute before launch from Cape Kennedy when a prime crewman faced the threat of measles.

Despite the cold and the physical and mental hardship, the men encountered after an explosion rocked Apollo 13 Monday night when they were nearing the moon, space agency doctors examined them for three hours and pronounced them in good shape.

For the astronauts, who hadn't had a warm meal since Monday's explosion, the dinner menu after splashdown featured an Odyssey appetizer, shrimp cocktail, prime rib roast, lunar salad with Iwo Jima dressing, and for dessert, moonfruit melba and Apollo cookies.

THE ASTRONAUTS came aboard this prime recovery carrier 44 minutes after their splashdown about 621 miles southeast of Pago Pago in American Samoa.

They will go to Pago Pago today and then to Hawaii.

President Nixon said he would bring the wives of Lovell and Haise to Hawaii and give the astronauts the Medal of Freedom — the highest award for a U.S. civilian, for their level-headed performance in getting Apollo 13 home despite a 12-by-5 foot hole in the service module.

The astronauts are expected to return to Houston Sunday but may stay in Hawaii an extra day.

Lovell, who has more time in space than anyone, talked to his wife by telephone after the emergency landing. So did Haise, whose wife is expecting their fourth child in June.

Bachelor Swigert talked to his folks in East Denver, Colo.

BECAUSE of the explosion that rocked Apollo 13

Monday night, the space fliers returned to earth four days ahead of schedule — and without making man's third exploration of the moon.

In Mission Control, the men who helped get the stricken spaceship back home through almost a quarter-million miles of bone-chilling space, were more restrained than usual when Apollo 13 hit the water, its big orange parachutes clearly visible on worldwide television against a backdrop of blue, cloud-dotted skies.

They did not engage in the hoopla they did on Apollo 11 and 12 but there was a definite sense of accomplishment in the windowless, gray-green room.

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — James A. Lovell built his world record for time in space to 715 hours and five minutes during the Apollo 13 flight.

Like the controllers who also will get Freedom Medals from the President for their role in nursing the stricken moonship back to earth, the astronauts underplayed their lines.

"OK, Joe," Swigert radioed after the radio blackout that made re-entry even more scary than usual. He was talking to ground controller Joe Kerwin.

BUT DESPITE the cold, the fatigue, the obvious mental stress that Lovell, Haise and Swigert had been under for three days, they aligned their return flight so accurately that their splashdown was one of the best in all U.S. space history.

A swimmer from the recovery ship reached the capsule nine minutes after it hit the water, and 44 minutes later the pilots were lifted by helicopter to the flight deck of the Iwo Jima.

Sailors lined the rails and a mighty cheer went up as Lovell, followed by Swigert and then Haise, stepped down on the red carpet that was rolled out for them.

The bearded astronauts, wearing blue coveralls and baseball caps, were smiling as the white-suited sailors swarmed around. They appeared in good condition and said they felt fine.

With their gold Apollo 13 arm patches glistening in the South Pacific sunlight, the astronauts stood with their heads bowed while the ship's chaplain offered

ENTIRE SIDE BLOWN AWAY Hole in Apollo 13 Astounds Crew

SPACE CENTER, Houston — John L. Swigert looked out Friday at the jagged 12-x-5-foot hole in the inch-thick wall of Apollo 13 and suddenly "realized what a beautiful place earth was."

Swigert, James A. Lovell and Fred W. Haise were 34,254 miles from earth. It was 5:15 a.m. PST, and they had just jettisoned the crippled, tank-shaped back half of their Apollo command ship.

For the first time they saw, and photographed for the world to see next week, the damage from the mysterious oxygen tank explosion Monday that killed their chance of making America's third moon landing. That blast started them instead on a harrowing 312,619-mile ride home using their landing craft as a lifeboat.

BUT THEY were safe, about to lock themselves inside the conical command ship cabin of Apollo 13 that had just enough electricity and oxygen to get them the rest of the way home to splashdown in the Pacific Ocean.

The magnitude of the wreckage astounded them. They saw the yawning hole in the service module's power plant bay wall, with debris hanging off a four-dish radio antenna at its tail that looked like a giant four-leaf clover.

"There's a whole side of that spacecraft missing," Lovell called out to ground controller Joseph Kerwin as the jettisoned service module moved into view.

"Is that right," Kerwin asked, astonished.

"Right by the — look out there, wait a minute — right by the high gain antenna the whole panel is blown out. Almost from the base (of where the cabin had been) to the engine," Lovell replied.

Haise chimed in: "It's really a mess. Man, that's unbelievable."

The astronauts studied the blasted hull and Haise decided that "the explosion, from what I could see, had stages."

Kerwin asked if the flared nozzle bell of the main Apollo engine, mounted at the base of the service module, was "deformed, or just nicked, or what?" Haise said he was unable to tell.

THE SERVICE module, shaped like a drum 24 feet 9 inches high counting the engine bell length and 12 feet 10 inches in diameter, had a central core surrounded by long, narrow, wedge-shaped bays.

The most completely-filled bay was number 4, which housed two oxygen tanks, three fuel cells that generate electricity from oxygen and hydrogen, two hydrogen tanks.

It was one of these oxy-

FBI Nabs 'Top 10' Fugitive

James John Byrnes, 42, one of the Federal Bureau of Investigation's 10 most wanted fugitives, was arrested in Huntington Beach Friday night, agents reported.

Byrnes, armed with a derringer-type pistol, submitted to arrest without a struggle and was taken to Orange County Jail, agents said.

Huntington Beach police said they had no information about the arrest of Byrnes, whom agents said will be arraigned before a U.S. Commissioner in Santa Ana Monday.

Byrnes, who escaped from Stafford County Jail in St. John, Kan., Feb. 26, was charged in federal warrants with two counts of kidnapping, transporting a stolen airplane across a state line, interstate transportation of a stolen auto, and interstate transportation of a firearm following a felony conviction.

Byrnes is a native of Los Angeles, according to agents.

12-MILE LIMIT STANDS Court Upholds Anchovy Ruling

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

Superior Court Judge Richard Schauer ruled in Los Angeles Friday that the California Fish and Game Commission had acted in good faith in issuing a restriction against commercial fishermen seining anchovies in in-shore waters.

The judge denied a request by the commercial fishing interests of the San Pedro area for a temporary restraining order which, in effect, would have voided the ruling of the Fish and Game Commission.

At the same time, he ruled against a writ of mandate which the commercial interests had asked against the commission. He said the commission had acted without prejudice.

The ruling means that the March 20 order of the commission will stand. The order bars commercials from taking anchovies for reduction purposes within the 12-mile limit from the Mexican border to Point Conception.

THE ORDER keeps closed an area from Dana Point to the east end of Catalina Island and from the west end of Catalina to Point Dume, which prevents commercials from taking anchovies, a basic forage fish for all game fishes, in inshore and offshore waters, in the area between Long Beach and Catalina Island.

Complaints against the skippers of six seiners have been filed in another court. They were accused of seining in Santa Monica Bay, an area closed for years to commercial fishing. They pleaded not guilty and the case has been set for next month.

Fire Guts Torrance Building

A spectacular fire gutted a warehouse in Torrance Friday night, causing at least $100,000 damage to the building and its contents.

One fireman was injured in fighting the blaze.

Flames from the fire at 538 Alaska Ave. shot 30 feet into the air, and a smoke column was visible for about five miles, a Torrance Fire Department spokesman said.

He said the fire erupted at about 7:15 in the warehouse used for storage of foam rubber products by CPR Industries.

Six engine companies, two truck companies and a rescue-salvage unit were sent to the scene and contained the blaze within an hour.

Fireman Lenneth Atkinson suffered an electric shock when he sprayed water from an aerial ladder onto high-tension wires near the building. He was treated at Little Company of Mary Hospital for burns on his hands and was released.

Viet Forces Battle on Cambodia Line

Combined News Services

SAIGON — South Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops battled Friday on both sides of the border with Cambodia, intensifying the fighting along the frontier despite U.S. appeals to the Saigon government to halt military intrusions into the neutral country. Allied sources said South Vietnamese forces were in the fourth day of an operation inside Cambodia Friday, and reported a Viet Cong attack on a Saigon outpost three miles from the border. The sources said seven South Vietnamese soldiers were killed and 23 wounded in the Communist attack. Fifteen Communists were known to have been killed in the fighting.

Paisley Warns Chichester-Clark
BELFAST — The Rev. Ian Paisley, militant Protestant leader who swept to victory in election for the Northern Ireland parliament Friday, demanded Friday the resignation of Prime Minister James Chichester-Clark. The outspoken, controversial figure in the center of the crisis between Protestants and Roman Catholics in Ulster challenged Chichester-Clark's Unionist party government to hold a general election now. "I'll make it so hot for the prime minister he will want to retire," Paisley told newsmen.

Soviet to Get U.S. Arms Plan
VIENNA — A comprehensive U.S. plan to limit nuclear delivery weapons will be presented very soon to Russia at the Vienna Strategic Arms Limitations Talks, sources said Friday night. President Nixon's decision to go ahead with the plan, rather than more cautious, weapon-by-weapon limitation proposals was confirmed by the sources.

Russ MIGs, Pilots in Egypt
LONDON — The Soviet Union has pilots and supersonic MIG-23 jet fighters in Egypt, according to London reports. The reports said the Soviet Union began introducing the MIG-23s into Egypt at the same time it sent SAM-3 missiles and an estimated 12,000 Soviet military personnel to operate the ground-to-air rockets. Reports also said this was the first MIG-23 shipment to Egypt and apparently the first time the advanced fighter has been sent to any nation outside the Soviet Union.

New Avalanches Panic Rescuers
PLATEAU D'ASSY — Several landslides and avalanches cascaded down the steep slopes of the Roc des Fiz Alpine peak Friday, spreading panic among French rescue workers digging for bodies of 72 children and nurses killed in a sanitarium building crushed by an avalanche Thursday. Fifty six of the 72 victims of the avalanche were children. By Friday, 36 bodies had been unearthed. Officials said the 36 missing persons were dead.

TAKEO — The widespread killing of Vietnamese residents of Cambodia took another bloody turn in Cambodia Friday with the slaughter in a concentration camp of more than 100 survivors reported. The Vietnamese came under suspicion because Viet Cong and North Vietnamese are attacking the Cambodian army.

Dud Mortar Shell Kills Five
MANILA — A dud mortar shell exploded in a training area of the U.S. Subic Bay Naval Base Friday and killed five Filipinos, including two women, the Manila Times reported. The newspaper quoted a Philippine military liaison officer as stating the victims were believed to have been gathering expended shells in the restricted area.

Postal System Hit by Agnew

WASHINGTON — Vice President Spiro Agnew blasted Congress Friday for failing to act on President Nixon's proposed overhaul of the postal system. "A Republican reform President must have a Republican reform Congress if he is going to succeed," Agnew told a National Republican Leadership Conference. The conference had set a charge of Democratic obstructionism as its keynote for the fall election campaigns. President Nixon, who had disappointed the Republicans by canceling his appearance at the conference because of the troubles of Apollo 13, showed up briefly Friday night and used his time to praise the astronauts. Agnew, featured speaker at the strategy conference to plan for the 1970 elections, said that the "greater tragedy" of the postal strike was that "it didn't have to happen. The Postmaster General has been warning the Congress and the country for more than a year that the present postal system carried within it the seeds of its own destruction," Agnew said. The 1,200 Republicans attending the conference were given a lift by assurances the pocketbook issue would be working in their favor before the elections.

Bootleg Meat Shipment Plea

WASHINGTON — More than 30 House members urged in a letter to President Nixon Friday that he use his authority to halt bootleg shipments of meat through third countries to avoid U.S. quota limitations. Rep. Fletcher Thompson, R-Ga. said in a statement the Congressmen took this step in an effort to halt the practice which adversely affects all livestock producing states. During 1969 an estimated 18 million pounds of meat entered the U.S. via this bootleg method, Thompson said. "We have urged the President to issue an executive order prohibiting foreign meat not shipped under bills of lading from entering the U.S.," he said.

Impound Kopechne Transcript

BOSTON — A Massachusetts Superior Court judge issued an order Friday to impound indefinitely the transcript and judge's report of the secret inquest into the death of Mary Jo Kopechne. The move could delay the public release of the documents until fall. Judge Wilfred J. Paquet issued the order which said the secret documents "shall remain impounded until further orders of this court." Miss Kopechne died July 18, 1969, in Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's automobile when it plunged off a bridge on Chappaquiddick Island. Paquet apparently issued his impounding order to delay the publication of the papers until a dispute between a court stenographer and the Superior Court Clerk could be settled.

MISSOULA — Sen. Edward Kennedy D-Mass., called Friday night for the U.S. to join with other Latin American nations in reasserting the political ideals of the Alliance for Progress. Calling for an end to the military assistance program in Latin America, Kennedy also urged a re-evaluation of the nation's Cuban policy.

Ralph Nader Blasts Price Fixing

WASHINGTON — Consumer advocate Ralph Nader Friday told congressmen the "degree of waste, fraud and price fixing" on the American market today has done more to lower the value of the consumer's dollar than inflation. Nader repeated before a House government operations subcommittee, as he has done in other congressional hearings, his demand for an independent consumer protective agency in the federal government.

Bailey Kids Freed of Family Murder

Murder charges against Susie Bailey, 15, and her brother, Roger, 13, accused of setting a fire last June that killed 12 members of their family, were dismissed Friday because of insufficient evidence. Judge Donald F. Black of Wood County court, Parkersburg, W. Va., ordered all 12 counts of murder dropped after the assistant county prosecutor said the state had no admissible evidence linking the suspects to the fire that killed their parents and 10 brothers and sisters.

Black earlier suppressed a confession authorities said they received from Susie two days after the June 8 fire which destroyed the Baileys' frame and tarpaper shack. The Court later refused a request from the state attorney general to overrule Black's decision on the confession.

Wood County prosecuting attorney R. Bruce White said he did not have a case against the two unless the confession could be admitted as evidence. Judge Black had ruled the girl signed the confession statement without knowingly and intelligently waiving her rights.

Authorities said the girl told them in the confession that she, with the help of her brother, doused gasoline in the house and set fire to it because her father opposed her dating a 19-year-old first cousin. Only a maternal grandfather, Obie Bailey, 63, escaped the blaze. Susie and her brother were in court for Friday's ruling. The court indicated they would be remanded to juvenile court and placed in foster homes.

DICK GREGORY

Black speaker Dick Gregory may be teaching at the University of Hawaii next year in the new ethnic studies program, it was announced Friday. Gregory, comedian and writer, spoke to a crowd of 5,000 at the university's Andrews Outdoor Theater Friday afternoon. He said America was a "sick and insane nation," but called upon young people to tackle this problem. Gregory criticized President Nixon, Vice President Spiro Agnew and the Chicago conspiracy trials.

PRINCELY ESCORT

Prince Charles took a beautiful brunette to the theater in London Friday night and set off a brief mystery. Buckingham Palace declined to identify her, but newsmen later discovered she was Miss Lucia Santa Cruz 26-year-old daughter of Victor Santa Cruz, Chilean ambassador to Britain. Miss Cruz met Charles, 21, at Cambridge University where the prince was a student.

Nobel prize-winning chemist Linus Pauling has received Russia's international Lenin Peace Prize for his "activity in defense of peace." Pauling, the only man ever to win two Nobel prizes, has been on the Stanford University faculty since last year after several years at the University of California at San Diego. He won the 1954 Nobel Prize in chemistry for his work on the structure of the protein molecule and the 1962 Nobel Peace Prize for his championing of the atomic test-ban treaty.

IMPEACH ISSUE

Asked Friday by a newsmen if he was advocating revolution in his new book, "Points of Rebellion," Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas suggested that the reporter read it, "and if you find that I do that, I'll eat it without any mayonnaise or anything." Congressmen seeking to impeach Douglas have accused him of proposing revolution in the book. They also have attacked him for letting a section of it be reprinted in the Evergreen Review, a magazine some regard as pornographic.

JOHNNY 'ANGRY MAN' CASH PARKS 'CADILAC,' SINGS 'SUE'

Johnny Cash, the "first angry man" among country music singers, gave an arresting command performance at the White House Friday night that had his audience tapping their feet and swaying in their seats. By his own desire, he did not deliver the song, "Welfare Cadillac" which President Nixon requested and which pokes fun at people on welfare as shiftless and sly. Nor, as asked by Nixon, did he sing a song called "Okie From Muskogee," which is derivative of the hippie style of life and extols traditional American virtues. But the big, husky singer, dressed in a black frock coat, a ruffled shirt with a huge pussycat bow, and a Mississippi riverboat gambler's vest, all of his own design, did boom out "A Boy Named Sue"—the President's third and last advance request. Backed by the "Tennessee Three" band and his own rolling-beat guitar, Cash gave a rollicking and powerful performance of spirituals, songs about prison and railroad trains—two of his preoccupations—love, cotton, farm life and the Alabama.

'THANK YOU'

Merriman Smith, UPI White House reporter, was paid memorial tribute Friday by President Nixon and hundreds of Washington newsmen with whom he had worked. Nixon was unable to attend the tribute at National Presbyterian Church but he sent a personal message which said: "The name of Merriman Smith has a place on the honor roll of great reporters... he won the deep respect of the Presidents he covered and the public he served."

The President's message concluded: "For your integrity, tenacity and example both to those who report and those who are reported upon: Thank you, Mr. Smith." That was a play on the words: "Thank you, Mr. President," with which Smith customarily ended presidential news conferences.

The University of California Regents voted against Ralph Nader Friday, deciding to back the management of General Motors at the annual shareholder's meeting next month. The university owns 100,000 shares of the automobile company. Attorney Frederick Dutton, one of the regents, asked the board to vote its stock in favor of Nader's "campaign to make GM responsible."

NO VERDICT ON FOUQUET CHILD CASE

A Los Angeles jury deliberated Friday whether Ronald Fouquet was mentally incapable of killing his 5-year-old stepson, as claimed by the defense, or if he murdered him as part of a "cold, deliberate, sadistic plan" as charged by the prosecution. The jury of eight men and four women deliberated five hours Friday and was unable to reach a verdict. Jurors will resume discussion of the case today.

In closing arguments, the prosecution charged that Fouquet, 32, deliberately mistreated and killed Jeffery Lansdown, son of his common-law wife, Betty, 28. Fouquet testified during the trial that Jeffery suddenly became ill and died. He denied mistreating the boy. The couple faces charges in Bakersfield of abandoning another child beside a freeway last year.

The jury had the option of five possible verdicts: First-degree murder, second-degree murder, voluntary manslaughter, involuntary manslaughter and acquittal.

NEW HEARING

Nevada district judge Grant Bowen Friday set June 1 as the date for a new penalty hearing for convicted killer Thomas Lee Bean. Bean was convicted in Reno's Washoe District Court in 1963 of the slaying of British Olympic skier Sonja McCaskie. He has been on Death Row since pending the outcome of appeals through the courts.

Manson 'Circus' in Court

By MARY NEISWENDER
Staff Writer

The three-ring circus featuring the Manson Family previewed in Los Angeles Superior Court Friday with a cast of characters that included six attorneys, four judges and an equal amount of defendants.

When the dust cleared and the hectic session ended, the trial of hippie cult leader Charles Manson and five of his "family" had been postponed from April 20 to June 15.

But that wasn't the only thing that happened as the case switched from courtroom to courtroom.

Judge William Keene, who had been expected to preside at the trial, disassociated himself from the case, ruling that a motion of prejudice filed by Manson's current attorney, Ron Hughes, and a new attorney, David Aberson, was valid.

Judge Adolph Alexander, appointed by Judge George Dell as the case switched to the Master Criminal Calendar courtroom, to handle the case in place of Judge Keene, was immediately challenged by attorney Daye Shinn, representing Susan Atkins. He was ruled out.

Judge Charles H. Older was then named to handle the case.

A motion, again, to serve as his own attorney, by the bearded, long-haired Manson, was denied by Judge Dell. However the defendant is expected to renew the motion the day the trial is expected to open.

The firing of his attorney, Ron Hughes, by Manson was rejected by Judge Dell with the statement that Hughes entered the case "with your eyes wide open," and Manson had no other attorney he wanted.

Although the results of the bizarre court hearing were concrete, the activities during the half-hour session seemed unbelievable in a court of law.

"Mr. Manson feels he is ready for trial and objects to a continuance," Hughes, the attorney for the hippie leader said.

"I didn't know I was supposed to make a motion, but I will," Paul Fitzgerald, the attorney for Patricia Krenwinkel told the court in referring to a continuance.

Manson interjected: "I have always objected to a continuance and I still do."

When Hughes said he would not be ready for trial April 20, Judge Dell asked the bearded attorney when he would be ready.

"1984," Manson interrupted, then added, "I would like to dismiss this man as my attorney."

It was at this point that the usually calm judge admonished Manson that he was not serving as his own attorney, then turned to face Hughes.

"You took this case with your eyes wide open. No one forced you to take this case. You should be ready by June 15 or thereabouts."

Then turning to Manson's motion to serve as his own attorney, Judge Dell informed the jammed courtroom that he had "gone over" the motion for proper status.

"Mr. Manson has demonstrated conclusively that he cannot represent himself. There is a practical limit to what the court will put up with. Initially a public defender was appointed. Then an internationally-known criminal lawyer was named to talk with Mr. Manson, who proved conclusively he could not represent himself.

Charles Hollopeter, another outstanding criminal lawyer, was appointed, but Mr. Manson decided to select still another attorney... and he picked the attorney with the least experience in Los Angeles County. He (Ron Hughes) was Mr. Manson's selection, and Mr. Hughes came in with his eyes wide open."

The June 15 date, which Manson again said he "objected" to, will be the final continuance, Judge Dell promised.

Meanwhile, back in Texas, Charles (Tex) Watson, the final "family" member charged in the Tate-La Bianca murders, still was fighting extradition.

A hearing has been set April 22 in Austin, Tex., before the highest court in the state, the Court of Criminal Appeals, on Watson's appeal. Decision should be delivered April 29, Deputy Dist. Atty. Aaron Stovitz said. If the appeal is denied, Watson has until May 14 to appeal, but on that date a Los Angeles police officer will be on hand to take the young Manson "family" member into custody.

He is expected to be prosecuted with the rest of the "family" members — Manson, Miss Atkins, Patricia Krenwinkel — Leslie Van Houten, for the killings. The other member of the family, Linda Kasabian, is expected to be granted immunity for her testimony for the prosecution.

BEAUSOLEIL JURY BEGINS THIRD DAY

A seven-man, five-woman jury will begin the third day of deliberations today in the murder trial of Robert Beausoleil, a member of the "Manson family" charged with the murder of musician Gary Hinman.

Charles Manson, ring-leader of the "family" and accused mastermind of the Tate-LaBianca murders, and two of his followers also have been indicted for the Hinman murder.

The 22-year-old Beausoleil testified that it was Manson who killed the UCLA graduate because he refused to turn over money to the hippie cult.

The trial is the second for young Beausoleil. The first trial, in Santa Monica Superior Court, ended with a hung jury.

Cutbacks Asked in L.A. Schools

Drastic program cutbacks, including dropping one class a day for junior and senior high school students, were recommended Friday to the Los Angeles city school district, now crippled by a teacher's strike.

Superintendent Robert E. Kelly told the Board of Education $41 million in services must be cut to balance the 1970-71 budget of $700 million for the nation's second largest school district. The superintendent said none of the cutbacks would provide extra money for teachers' salaries. He said they were necessary because voters defeated a recent tax override proposal.

said it could afford only a 5 per cent pay boost over the $7,230-$13,500 salary range.

The teachers were demanding at least a six per cent hike.

Before Thursday, the school board said it would not negotiate until the teachers returned to work.

THE UNION has ignored a restraining order issued Monday ordering the strikers back to work. Four UTLA leaders have been ordered to appear in Superior Court April 27 to explain why they should not be cited for contempt.

There were some reports of minor strike incidents Friday, both striking and nonstriking teachers saying they've received threatening phone calls and been harassed by name-calling.

IN ADDITION to the reduced five one-hour classes a day, Kelly recommended eliminating junior and senior high school inter-scholastic athletics and drama, journalism and music programs and making deep cuts in health services, classroom cleaning, library acquisitions and bus transportation.

The cuts in classes would wipe out 1,321 teaching positions.

The board will deliberate on the proposals next week.

Kelly also consulted with the board in executive session to get guidance in reopening negotiations with the striking United Teachers of Los Angeles.

The board voted 4-3 Thursday night for the superintendent to approach the union with proposals to get them back to the classroom.

IN ITS FIFTH day, the strike dropped student attendance below 50 per cent Friday and more than 13,000 of the district's 25,000 teachers were absent, school officials said. Many schools closed at noon.

The Los Angeles district, largest in the nation after New York City's, has 650,000 students in 616 schools.

The latest negotiations between school officials and the union were April 10, when both sides deadlocked after the district

What Things Done!

ACTION LINE is your service, solving your problems, getting your answers, cutting red tape and standing up for your rights. To get action, write ACTION LINE, Box 230, Long Beach, Calif. 90801, or dial 432-3451 between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m., or 5 p.m. and 9 p.m., Monday through Friday. Questions to be answered are selected for their general interest and helpfulness.

Junk Mail

Q. Is there a law that protects the public against unsolicited books, records, toothpaste and the like received in the mail? Can we simply throw such junk away? Mrs. E. M., Long Beach.

A. There is no obligation upon you to return or pay for the various unsolicited gums, pastes or powders you may receive in the mail, according to a spokesman for the mailing requirements section of the Los Angeles

Action Line

Post Office. As with unwanted pornographic mail, you can fill out a form at the nearest post office which will be forwarded to the solicitor asking that you be taken off their mailing list. Or, you can simply drop the mail marked "return to sender" into a mailbox. Unless the sender has guaranteed return postage — not likely in most third class unsolicited mail — the unwanted mis-sives will be discarded permanently.

Meaty Question

Q. Three major meat processors are suing the state of Michigan in an attempt to relax Michigan meat inspection laws which are more strict than the federal laws. Michigan prohibits the use of lungs, melts (spleen), eyes, stomachs, throats, udders, lips, ears, and snouts in processed meats. What are the California laws on the use of these parts in meats sold in California? M.W., Long Beach.

GRAFFITI by Leary

A California state law permits the use of these parts as long as their presence is clearly identified on the label. Each processed meat has a state-established formula which dictates the amount of fat, water, and protein content that each particular meat product must contain. As long as these body parts meet the formula requirements, they are considered a food by the state. A meat inspector from the state Department of Agriculture is on hand in all meat processing plants to assure that these formulas are strictly adhered to.

Recipe

Q. I have a recipe which is original and terrific. I would like to submit it to a cooking contest at Reynolds Wrap Co. How and where do I go about sending it? A.B., Bellflower.

A. "This question keeps coming up for some reason, although we have not had a cooking contest in years," said a public relations representative for Reynolds Aluminum Co. in Los Angeles. The company sponsored several cooking contests in 1967, when Reynolds Wrap was first introduced, but they have not had any recently. If you are interested in selling the recipe, you may contact the legal department of Reynolds Aluminum Co., Richmond, Va., with your idea.

Noteworthy

Q. I have a credit note good for $18 at a Long Beach dress shop that recently changed ownership. The new owner says he is not responsible for the old owner's debts, but this doesn't seem fair. What is the law in this regard? B. H., Long Beach.

A. In such cases, the new owner may or may not be liable for the previous owner's debts, depending on the terms involved in the sale of the business, said Herschel

Action Line

Elkins, deputy attorney general. It is possible for a purchaser of a business to buy only its assets, leaving the liabilities with the previous owner, just as it is possible to take over both assets and liabilities. Elkins said it is "nearly impossible" to find out the terms of the sale agreement in such cases without bringing suit — usually at more cost than it's worth. Attempts by ACTION LINE to locate the shop's previous owner failed.

Minor Problem

Q. Why isn't Social Security withheld from working persons under 21? J. S., Long Beach.

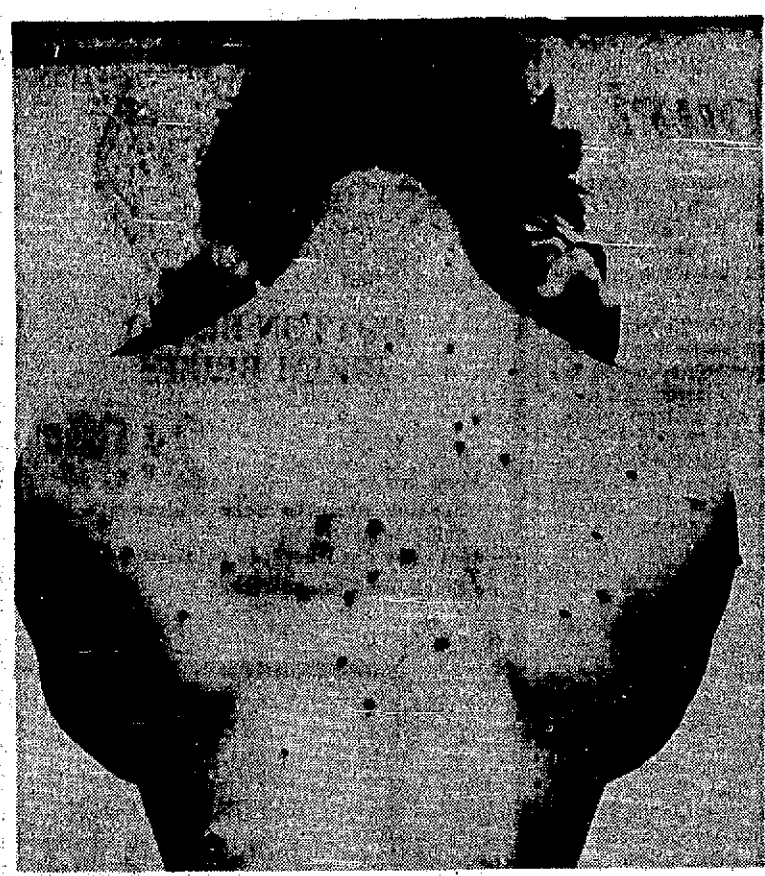

A. Minors are subject to regular Social Security benefits and withholding, and there is no law which exempts minors from deductions, according to George Hermann of the Social Security office in Long Beach. If you suspect any irregularities in the amount withheld from your pay, bring it to the attention of the Social Security office 1235 Pacific Ave., and they will be glad to assist you.

HOW TO USE ACTION LINE

When calling or writing with a problem or question, give your name, address and telephone number—not for publication, as only readers' initials are used in the column—but to help ACTION LINE help you. Include pertinent information but please don't send original documents or pictures that you want returned.

The volume of mail makes it impossible to answer or acknowledge every question. Each question, however, is carefully read and considered. Because of the delay in transcribing telephone messages recorded on ACTION LINE's special number, 432-3451, mail requests often receive prompter attention than phone calls.

Persons seeking information contained in past ACTION LINE items may visit the newspaper's library, Room 208, The Independent, Press-Telegram Building, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. weekdays for help. Phone calls to ACTION LINE through the regular Independent, Press-Telegram switchboard will not be put through.

ISLA VISTA resident Alexandra Van Loon, 18, shows shotgun-pellet wounds suffered Thursday night as she ran from scene of disturbance as police fired tear-gas and riot guns.

4 Blazes Flare in Tense Isla Vista; Clashes Avoided

By TOM WILLMAN
 Staff Writer

Four trash fires and one car fire broke the tense calm which lay over the Isla Vista student district of Santa Barbara Friday night as small clusters of young people and beefed-up police patrols eyed each other warily on strife-torn streets.

Although tensions were obviously high among both students and police, residents said there were fewer people on the streets than on a normal Friday night. There were no injuries and no arrests.

University staff members and student leaders also patrolled the streets, hoping to head off any repetition of Thursday night's violence, when riot-equipped police used tear gas and birdshot to rout 300 persons.

Four young people were wounded. No arrests were made and no police were injured.

An emergency curfew imposed late Thursday remained in effect. It forbade groups of more than three persons to move through the streets between 6:30 p.m. and 6 a.m.

BILL JAMES student body president at nearby UC Santa Barbara, told newsmen he would ask county and university administrators to end the state of emergency and dusk-to-dawn curfew.

"We want to run our own community," he said. The Isla Vista Bank of America — housed in a prefabricated structure since it was burned down by rioters Feb. 25 — was the scene of violence again Thursday night, although students and police disagreed about who started the trouble.

After Acting UCSB Chancellor A. Russell Buchanan declared the district under a state of emergency, six trucks carrying helmeted police with shields converged on a small park near the bank.

The police lobbed tear gas into the 300-strong crowd, which included young people who wanted to launch an assault on the bank and others who were trying to talk them out of it.

SHERIFF James Webster said his men fired birdshot over the heads of the young people. Other sheriff's spokesmen say the four injuries apparently occurred when birdshot ricocheted off the pavement. Student leaders say the police fired some rounds at the crowd.

At a UCSB news conference Friday afternoon, more than 50 students, UCSB staff members and Isla Vista property owners decried the police action the night before. Most speakers said they believed there would have been no violence if police had not entered the district.

"The police made a perfect war maneuver — except there was no war to fight," James said.

Curry Davis, another student body leader, said the police gave no warning to disperse until eight or nine minutes after they arrived and opened fire.

Eighteen-year-old Alexandra Van Loon displayed more than 30 birdshot wounds in her back. She said she was peppered by

'TROUBLES MAKE CASE STRONGER' Proxmire Renews Demand to Halt Apollo Program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A leading Senate critic of America's space program said Friday Apollo 13's difficulties make a stronger case for abandoning manned flights. However, a former astronaut who spent the day at the White House said President Nixon recognizes space exploration "comes with some hazards" and is determined to keep the space program on course.

Chairman Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., of the senate space committee, called for meetings with the Apollo 13 crew and space officials to discuss "problems that arose and plans developed to return the astronauts safely to earth."

"I am sure you agree that the next immediate goal is to reestablish the Apollo schedule and to again accomplish successful lunar missions," Anderson said this performance "accomplished in a period of serious adversity is a clear demonstration of the excellent capability of the NASA team and the Apollo system."

Haise Returns With Infection

ABOARD USS IWO JIMA (W) — Dr. Keith Baird, physician for the Apollo 13 astronauts, said Friday spaceman Fred W. Haise Jr. had a mild infection of the urinary tract, probably acquired from a shortage of drinking water in the spacecraft.

Dr. Baird said he was treating the infection with antibiotics. He sent Haise to bed immediately. Urine samples demonstrated that Haise's white blood cell count was somewhat elevated.

But SEN. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said the administration should abandon manned space flights in the wake of Apollo 13's difficulties and spend the money on education and other domestic programs.

Proxmire got little support last year for his effort to cut the Apollo program from the NASA budget. But he said Friday that Apollo 13's troubles "make the case stronger."

Michael Collins, a member of the Apollo 11 crew that made man's first moon landing, said after spending the day with Nixon, "the president is concerned this incident will be blown out of proportion." Collins, now an assistant secretary of state, said Nixon does not feel the Apollo 13 failure "should cloud the future with regard to the space program."

Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., said: "We must not panic in the face of Apollo 13's difficulties. We must not be led to abandon manned space flights. There will undoubtedly be some men of small soul and constricted vision who cannot comprehend the moral significance of the space program."

He said the nation could best solve its domestic problems by retaining its "appetite for rigorous exertions" and adventure as exemplified by manned space flights.

Mission Control Fires Up Cigars

SPACE CENTER, Houston (W) — The men in Mission Control looked like they had just won the World Series. They laughed. They cheered. They lit up cigars. Their mission was accomplished.

Only four days earlier, it was another matter. The experts on the ground looking after Apollo 13 were pretty unhappy. But when the Odyssey's orange and white chutes flashed on the Mission Control viewing screen Thursday, applause thundered across the room.

"Odyssey, we show you on the screen," the ground communicator said. "It really looks great."

A crowd filled the room. Flight controllers, still seemingly holding their breaths until the spacecraft landed safely, broke into smiles.

"Photo 1 observes splashdown at this time," reported a recovery helicopter far away in the South Pacific. Cheers greeted the words and cigars — symbol of a successful mission — were lit.

As soon as the chopper landed on the USS Iwo Jima, the nearly 200 persons who flooded the control room were all talking at once, shaking hands, slapping each other on the back.

HOLE

gen tanks that suddenly — and for reasons still unknown — burst Monday night after a rapid increase of pressure. The astronauts knew from their instrument and power loss that much damage had been done. They could see gas spewing out, and later "snowflake" particles, so they knew there was some hole.

But neither they nor ground officials suspected that the blast had torn out the entire wall of the bay, made of inch-thick aluminum honeycomb and measuring 12 feet 11 inches by 5 feet 6 inches.

THE BLAST also ripped loose pipes, wires, joints and instruments as shrapnel from the exploded tank sprayed through the surrounding equipment. The second oxygen tank, apparently suffering a small puncture, slowly lost its pressure too. Electrical power shut down.

Swigert, a bachelor, told his mother by telephone from the recovery carrier Iwo Jima that the extent of the damage caught him off guard — and made him realize just how severe the explosion had been.

"Jack told us he was happy to be back," Mrs. Swigert told newsmen at her home in Denver. "He said when he saw the big hole in the side of the service module, he realized what a beautiful place earth was."

End of Man's Most Perilous Flight

★★★ AH, GOOD SHIP AQUARIUS— ONLY ONE TO COME HOME ★★★

SPACE CENTER, Houston (U) — Spider and Snoopy, Eagle and Intrepid—heroic ships all. But this—this was the flight of Aquarius. They were all outstanding, these man-made jitneys that live only in space. They all did their job and did them splendidly.

But Aquarius. Ah, Aquarius.

Like it says in the song of the same name, Aquarius had it: Harmony and understanding. Sympathy and trust abounding.

"She was a good ship," said James A. Lovell Jr., one of the trio whose lives she saved. It was the sort of simple tribute a pioneer might have given his horse, a racer his car, a hunter his dog.

Without Aquarius breathing life into the command module—the air, water and electricity on which spacemen depend—there would have been no return for Lovell, Fred W. Haise Jr., and John L. Swigert Jr.

Aquarius. Ah, Aquarius. She was a good ship.

Spider, poor spider, the first lunar lander in space was packed full of trash by the Apollo 9 astronauts when they cut her loose and sent her to a near-immortal lifetime of orbiting the sun.

No affection for Spider—in fact, the farewell sounded rather sadistic. "It's really moving out."

And Snoopy, good old Snoopy. Apollo 10 astronaut Thomas Stafford called her "a good dog." But Stafford worried that Snoopy might follow the command ship, Charlie Brown, home.

Aquarius. Ah, Aquarius. She was a good ship. Nobody wanted to be rid of her. She was the lifeboat.

Then there was Eagle. Proud Eagle. She was engraved in the mind of man like other good ships of old: The Mayflower, The Constitution.

Neil A. Armstrong said "The Eagle has landed," when she touched down and her fame—the fame of Apollo 11—was forever. But Eagle, proud Eagle, ended her life on the moon; cut adrift in its rasp until the moon pulled her down and down.

And Intrepid, happy Intrepid. How thrilled Pete Conrad was with you on Apollo 12, how he jumped for joy as you landed on

Aquarius Mockup Not as Reliable

SPACE CENTER, Houston (U) — A full scale model of the lunar landing module at the Manned Spacecraft Center collapsed Friday, proving it couldn't match old faithful Aquarius.

Two legs of the model collapsed while workmen attempted to move it around for today's ceremony in which President Nixon will award service medals to flight directors who brought the Apollo 13 crew safely back to earth.

the moon. "I think I see my crater," he shouted. "There it is: There it is! Son of a gun, right down the middle of the road."

How did you die, Intrepid? You were smashed against the moon in the name of science.

But Aquarius. Ah, Aquarius. She was a good ship.

She gave mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, she was a place to sleep, a place to maneuver, she was the lifesaver for three men who would surely have died in space without her.

Like the others, Aquarius could live only in space. She was denied a berth at home, to be put on loving display like the Constitution or the battleship Texas.

But of all the lunar modules, she was the only one to touch planet earth again—even if it was burned pieces that dropped into the ocean.

Aquarius. Ah, Aquarius. She WAS a good ship.

'BEEN A NIGHTMARE' No More Flights, Says Mrs. Lovell

TIMBER COVE, Tex. (UPI) — "I always go along with what my husband wants to do, but after this—no! No, I wouldn't want him to go again!"

Marilyn Lovell was honestly relieved. For more than three days, she had watched and waited while her husband, James A. Lovell, nursed his crippled Apollo 13 back from the moon.

"It's been a nightmare," she told reporters. "I have never experienced anything like this in my life and I never hope to experience it again."

Lovell, who has logged 715 hours and five minutes of space flight, said before the launch of Apollo 13 last Saturday that this was his last mission. He was ready to retire. There has been speculation he will want to be rescheduled for the aborted Apollo 13 mission.

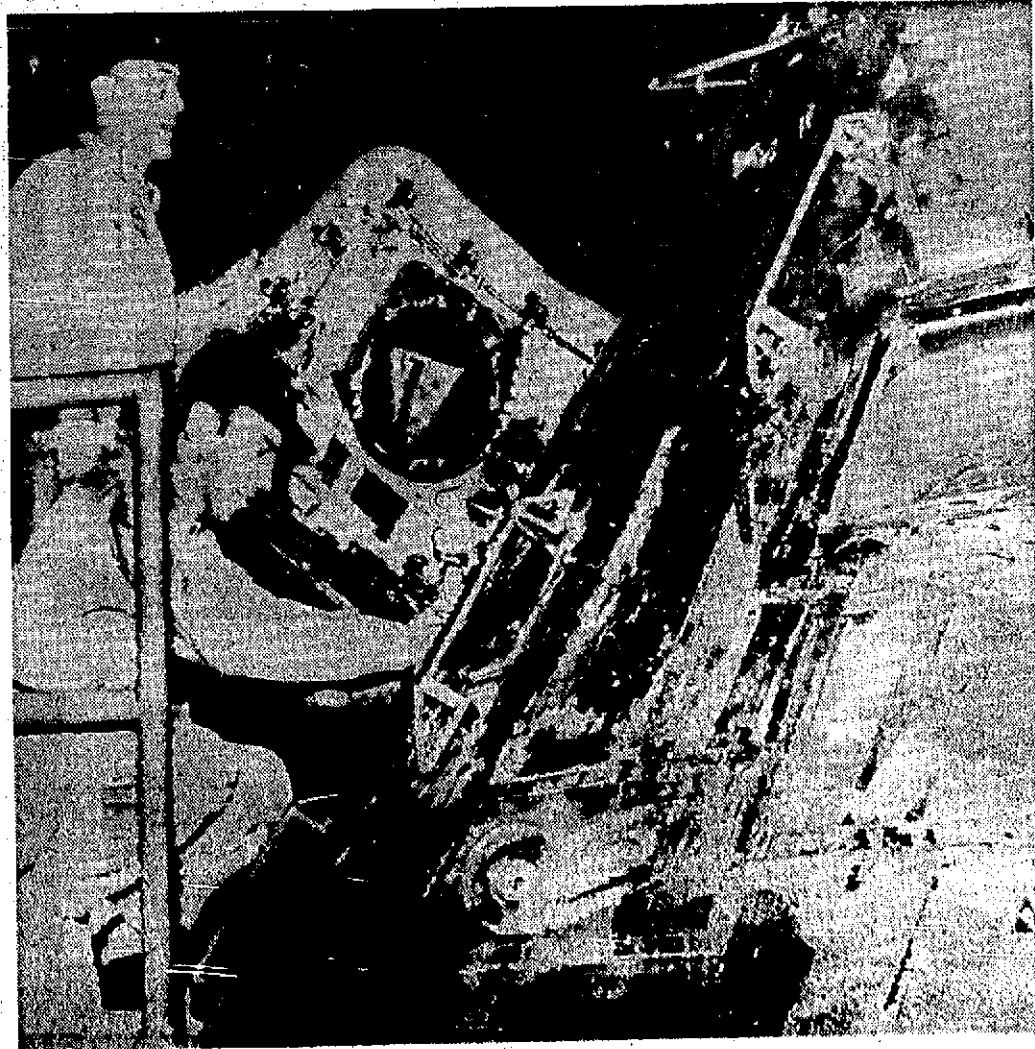

Mrs. Lovell, an outgoing brunette, who is quick to show her emotions, let out a squeal of joy when Apollo 13 splashed down. Mary Haise, seven months pregnant, also watched the end of the troubled flight on television. She said the baby she expects in June was "very active" during the mission, but if her husband wants to go again, it is all right with her. "Whatever he wants to do," she said.

Both Mrs. Haise and Mrs. Lovell said they turned to their faith in God to help them through the darkest hours. "Time has been inconceivable," Mrs. Lovell said. "We all had faith in God and it's my faith in God that helped me most. I prayed a lot."

Both women also got a telephone call from President Nixon in Washington shortly after the successful splash down and Mrs. Haise said she told him: "That was the most beautiful sight I have ever seen. I'm jubilant and thankful."

The third man aboard Apollo 13 was bachelor, Jack Swigert. His father in East Denver, Colo., told newsmen: "It was a beautiful beginning and a beautiful landing, but I wouldn't give you two hoots for the interim."

a brief prayer of thanks for their safe return.

THEN THEY walked to an elevator to be taken to the ship's hospital for medical checkups.

President Nixon, who had set up a command post at the White House to follow the perilous flight, phoned the astronauts' families immediately after splash down. He proclaimed Sunday as a national day of prayer and thanksgiving.

THE FLIGHT of Apollo 13 lasted 142 hours and 54 minutes, or about 98 hours less than originally planned. Lovell and Haise were supposed to have made man's third lunar landing on a hilly section of the moon known as Fra Mauro.

The space fliers swallowed dextroline pills, a stimulant, before attempting the split second maneuvers that brought them blazing back to earth.

Tensions of the flight, and a near-freezing chill that flooded their space cabin made sleep almost impossible, and Ground Control suggested they take the pills to bring their reflexes up to par.

Before the re-entry, the pilots had to execute several intricate maneuvers to jettison their damaged service module and the little lunar lander, Aquarius, which saved their lives after the explosion knocked out most of their electrical power and some of their oxygen.

When the awkward four-legged lunar lander drifted away, Lovell said, "Farewell, Aquarius... and we thank you."

It was from Aquarius that the astronauts drew their life-giving oxygen, and the necessary electrical power and rocket thrust to get them back to earth.

THEIR TRIP home was the coldest and eeriest in the history of manned spaceflight.

With the instruments aboard Apollo 13 powered down to conserve fuel, the jury-rigged space machine creaked and rattled as it glided across the 312,619 miles of space it had to cover to get back.

Not only did the absence of whirring instruments accentuate the quiet of space, the heat that they normally throw off likewise was sorely missed by the spacemen.

State Senators Clash Over Funds for Smog Research

SACRAMENTO (U) — The "father of California freeways," Sen. Randolph Collier, says no change in the State Constitution is needed to supply state money for antismog research.

But Sen. Nicholas C. Petrakis, D-Alameda, who wants to use gasoline tax revenues to combat smog and help rapid transit, responds the change is necessary to give California enough funds to "fight encroaching smog."

Sen. Collier, D-Yreka, a two-time veteran chairman of the Senate Transportation Committee, Friday said the legislative counsel told him state funds are already available under existing law to fund anti-air pollution studies.

"IT IS QUITE obvious now that such a proposed change in the Constitution is not needed, as we already have the tools to work with," said Collier, a perennial foe of using gasoline revenues for non-highway uses.

Petrakis, whose proposed Constitutional amendment is before Collier's committee, responded through an aide:

"Sen. Collier's revelation still won't ease the need to find reasonable, dependable ways for fighting air pollution."

Collier's opinion from a deputy to Legislative Counsel George Murphy was based on a question whether appropriations from the State Motor Vehicle Fund may be used to support the antismog activities of the State Air Resources Board.

THAT FUND is derived from motor vehicle registration and commercial weight fees, not the seven-cent-a-gallon gasoline and fuel taxes Petrakis wants to tap as more user-oriented.

"The supply of extra money in the State Motor Vehicle Fund is dwindling. The same fund is needed to finance expansion of the California Highway Patrol and other growing highway needs," said Petrakis.

Collier produced this reply to his query from deputy legislative counsel Jimmie Wing:

"It is our opinion that appropriations may be made from the Motor Vehicle Fund for the support of the State Air Resources Board activities relating to the air pollution problem caused by motor vehicles operated on the public streets and highways."

Collier, a three-decade veteran senator, successfully blocked gasoline tax diversion and rapid transit legislation during 20 years as chairman of the Senate's transportation committee.

LESS COSTLY THAN NURSING HOMES

New Medi-Cal Care Plan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The State Human Relations Agency announced plans Friday to set up a new intermediate category of out-of-home care for the aged or disabled.

Department Secretary Lucian B. Vandegrift said the average intermediate care rate was expected to be about $300-$320 — about $100 a month less than nursing home care and $100 more than residential care.

A study showed, Vandegrift said, that 35 per cent of a sampling of Medi-Cal recipients in nursing homes "could be served more appropriately by a lower level of medical care together with a higher level of social care, a combination that does not now exist."

He added, "Intermediate care will fill the existing gap between homes that either provide no regular nursing care or provide it around the clock."

"This new category will permit the aged or disabled to secure the combination of medical and social care best suited to their needs."

The secretary said the new program would probably go into effect in September after hearings are held and standards set.

Most of the new intermediate care beds will come from conversion of distinct portions of existing nursing and residential care homes minimizing the need to move residents, Vandegrift said.

At the same time, he said, state review teams will be formed to place residents whose care is paid by Medi-Cal or welfare programs in the most appropriate type of program.

Vandegrift said his agency proposed that the staffing of intermediate care homes include a licensed nurse on duty fulltime for the day shift during the regular work week.

NAVY LOOSENS GRIP

Port Hueneme Booms—Finally

Associated Press

More than a century ago the U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey noted a submarine canyon off Point Wymema that caused waves to flatten out and reach shore without breaking.

This led to a survey that yielded a report suggesting a 1,000-foot wharf "would have three fathoms to berth grain ships in comparative calm while the pound of combers was spent inshore."

In 1870, mariners began taking advantage of the ocean's calm.

A mercantile firm lighted ashore a cargo of lumber, then sent out 50 tons of grain by schooner. In 1871, they built a 800-foot wharf, and sank mooring bouys to prevent vessels from being shoved around by swells.

THUS WAS BORN what people in the Ventura County community of Port Hueneme like to call the only port for deep water shipping between San Francisco and Los Angeles-Long Beach.

Wymema, a Chumash Indian name, has been changed to Hueneme (pronounced why-knee-me). And a lot of other things have changed too.

Now an expansion program is under way to make Port Hueneme a major import-export center, served by freeways for Ventura, Santa Barbara and Kern counties.

It hasn't been easy.

A modern port was dredged in 1939, completed in 1940 and hailed as the finest on the coast.

It flourished, but was taken over by the Navy in 1942, enlarged, and during World War II shipped more dry cargo than any other port in the country.

AFTER THE WAR, the Navy was less than lightninglike in relinquishing the facilities. It took 14 years. By 1960 shipments of diatomaceous earth and lumber joined the previously all-Navy cargo. By 1965, citrus was being shipped.

Now the harbor district encompasses 37.4 acres and bids were advertised last month for three new deep water berths to diversify what has been predominantly a largely lumber operation.

A major source of new revenue likely will be the oil industry. Support of offshore drilling already has become an important source of income. There are storage areas, floating cranes, drilling mud and cement delivery systems, bulk fuel delivery lines.

The expansion is aimed at tripling the port's capabilities.

Girl of 100 Men

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Gloria Sykes, allegedly driven to affairs with 100 men by a cable car accident, testified Friday her friends "used to kid me about being the world's only 21-year-old virgin."

"Sex was something I never even thought of," Miss Sykes said, during her student days at the University of Michigan.

The 29-year-old former dance instructor, wearing blue and white checked pants and carrying a book of inspirational writings called "I Will Lift up Mine Eyes," took the stand for the first time in her $500,000 lawsuit against the City of San Francisco.

She said she lost her virginity at 23 to a 38-year-old professor of neurosurgery at the Michigan medical school before she came to San Francisco.

IN HIGH school, she said, "I was into just about everything," editing a paper, teaching Sunday School and singing in the choir.

Miss Sykes is suing San Francisco for alleged physical and mental injuries suffered in 1964 when a cable car she was riding broke loose and plunged down a steep hill.

Wenke Hits High Taxation

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

Superior Judge Robert A. Wenke, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, told the Third Friday Forum Friday that Democrats have a logical case to take to the jury — California voters.

The state has never had more taxes, he said, and in matters of education, taxation, pollution and crime, California seems to be "sliding...drifting."

"What major business would have hired the incumbent governor to be its president," Wenke asked. "When he announced his candidacy in 1965 hardly anybody took it seriously. People knew he was an actor, a good PR man, a good MC, but what major organization would have hired him? And so we're not surprised that state government has drifted — it's the sort of thing we expected."

BESIDES the drift, Wenke said the administration's attitude of "reacting emotionally, with intemperate actions, to problems" is something one might expect from young people, those lacking maturity, but not from the chief executive. "It polarizes and divides the people."

Wenke said he believes many people have been alienated from the Reagan administration because "they feel the governor's mind is already made up, according to certain prejudices and biases."

He criticized Reagan's "bull-headed" opposition to state income tax withholding at a cost of "hundreds of millions" and despite the fact that "hardly anybody thought he was right...but now he makes a death bed-type conversion."

Wenke, on leave as presiding judge of the Los Angeles County Juvenile Court, stressed his interest in placing more emphasis and money on delinquency prevention rather than on correction.

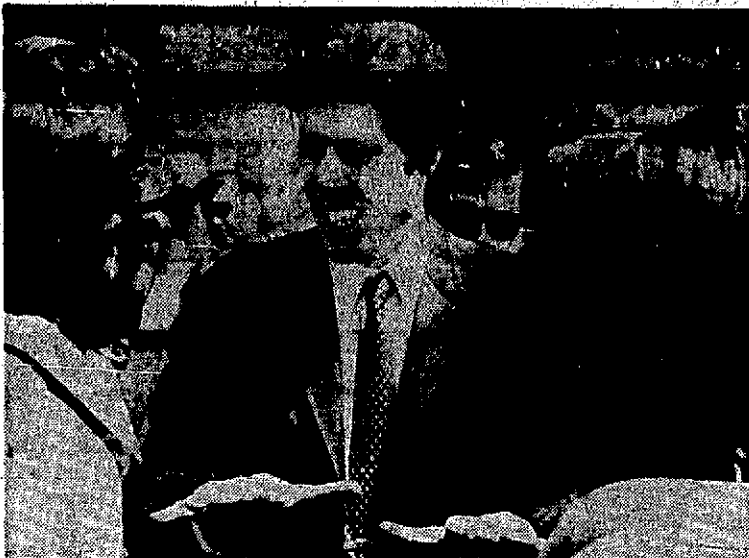

ALSO ON the Forum program at Lakewood Country Club was Democratic candidate for state controller, former Congressman Ronald Brooks Cameron, of Whittier.

Cameron urged a yes vote on Proposition 8 on the June ballot "although it's not a very good piece of legislation."

Its good features, he said, are that it mandates the state to provide 50 per cent of the cost of local education, which has not been done since 1940, and provides for a nominal cut in the sales and property tax.

It also, said Cameron, "puts Gov. Reagan in a box."

Citing his own experience in Sacramento and Washington, Cameron said, "Legislators respond only to pressure and crises."

DEMOCRAT JOHN TUNNEY TALKS TO STUDENTS

Tunney Says Nixon Behind Douglas Impeachment Try

STOCKTON (UPI) — Rep. John V. Tunney Friday accused President Nixon of engineering impeachment proceedings against Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas for political gain.

"It fits into the total overall strategy of President Nixon to work out a Southern bloc vote for him in the next election," the congressman said.

Tunney, a candidate for the Democratic U.S. Senate nomination, also said, "I think this is an additional attempt by the President through his representatives in the Congress to criticize the court."

Tunney said he doubts Douglas will be impeached.

"It's clear the constitution says that a justice can only be removed for high crimes and misdemeanors," he said. "There's nothing in what Gerald Ford brought out to indicate that Justice Douglas is guilty of high crimes and misdemeanors."

His reference was to House GOP leader Gerald Ford who Thursday accused Douglas of prejudice, conflict of interest, lack of decorum, fomenting a rebellion and writing for a lewd magazine.

Tunney's remarks were in response to a question during a brief campaign stop at the University of Pacific, where less than 150 students sat quietly in the warm sun at the Greek Theater while the candidate spoke.

Tunney said the President and Ford are using the Douglas impeachment issue as "a ploy to divert attention from the rejection" of Nixon's last two Supreme Court nominees by the Senate.

He added that simply because Douglas, an oft-married mountain-climbing justice, is controversial doesn't necessarily mean he should be removed from the bench.

"I personally do not approve of the personal lifestyle of Justice Douglas," he said, "but I think he's been in his written opinions on the court a good justice."

Tunney also delivered a speech to agriculture leaders in Sacramento and met with farm workers in Modesto during his first major campaign swing through the central valley.

'Earn Our Support'—Chicanos

FRESNO (AP) — The voter of Mexican descent is through giving his blessings to candidates and getting nothing in return, says Abe Tapia, 36, president of the Mexican-American Political Association.

The association meets here today and Sunday for its first pre-primary endorsement convention.

"I am asking MAPA to reject any candidate, regardless of party or past voting records, who refuses to endorse our own Chicano candidates, the grape strike and the grape boycott," Tapia said Friday.

Assemblyman Jess Unruh, running for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, is among more than a dozen candidates, mostly Democratic, scheduled to address an expected 700 delegates today in quest of the MAPA endorsement. The organization will vote on the endorsements Sunday.

TAPIA SAID he will recommend against the endorsement of "traditional liberal candidates merely because they are friends," apparently signaling a possible break in the traditional ties which Californians of Mexican descent have had with the Democratic Party.

"For too long," said Tapia, "they have been asking for our support but have not endorsed our people."

Of Unruh, Tapia said: "He certainly has no great record in respect to the Mexican-American."

Rep. Hanna Defends Rivers Bill

Rep. Richard T. Hanna, D-Huntington Beach, Friday disputed charges by William J. Teague, his Republican opponent for the 34th Congressional District seat, that a bill Hanna cosponsored "is destructive to Orange County."

Teague told Long Beach GOP Juniors Wednesday that the bill, HR 16854, cosponsored by Rep. Jerome Waldie, D-Antioch, would place "out of bounds" three rivers in Northern California upon which all of Southern California will be dependent for its water supply in future years.

TEAGUE SAID all three rivers, the Klamath, Trinity and Eel, are listed under the State Water Plan. He said the bill, "initiated by selfish Northern California interests, should be rejected."

Hanna said two of the mentioned rivers, Klamath and Trinity, are not included in the California Water Plan, "and Gov. Reagan has stopped all development on the Eel."

BROWNIE TROOP 613, PALOS VERDES, WATCHES THE MARVELOUS CRAWDAD COMEBACK
San Pedro's Charles Crawford Explains Restocking of Averill Park Pool

POISON WASHED AWAY

By DICK EMERY

If all goes well, San Pedro's famous little artificial creek may become once again the scene of a lively crawdad fishery.

Crawdads — so-called by the kids who fish for them — are freshwater crustaceans like small lobsters, with claws which pinch hard. Their fancy name is crawfish or crayfish.

The 700-foot streamlet in Averill Park, a meandering pool-to-pool trickle which is circulated by pumps, used to harbor not only crawdads, but frogs and minnows.

The mosquitoes got pretty bad around Averill Park last fall, so the park was sprayed with mosquito killer. It killed the mosquitoes, the frogs, the minnows and all the crawdads.

The wipe-out ended one of the park's most popular sports. Anglers of the 5-to-10 years old class used to fish for crawdads, dangling bread dough tied to a piece of string.

Deep in the murky pools, greedy crawdads would nip at the bread with their trusty pincers. They would hang on stubbornly—and thus were hauled up and put into buckets.

The kids would carry them around in buckets for awhile and usually would dump them back in the stream. Most Averill Park crawdads had been caught and put back a dozen times.

After the mosquito spraying, kids fished in vain. And for six months, not a living creature could be seen in the water. Three weeks ago, boys reported seeing a small frog in the creek, and some tiny fish. Rains seemed to have washed the poison away.

A few days ago, San Pedro's chapter of the Izaak Walton League, headed by Charles F. Crawford, a retired newspaperman, made a pilot effort to restock the stream. Crawdads were brought from the county's Alondra Park Lake.

"We planted only a few," Crawford said. "If they stay alive, we'll plant more. We are looking for a better source of supply than Alondra Park Lake, where — we found — crawdads are hard to catch."

HEARING ON APPIAN WAY SITE

Panel Eyes New Yacht Club

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

A proposed yacht club and commercial restaurant at 5555 Applan Way — property now being used for small-boat storage, and launching — is being studied by the Planning Commission.

Commissioners have continued a public hearing on the matter until May 7 to give themselves an opportunity to inspect the area and get additional information.

THE PROPERTY, which is being used by the Bay Sailing Association under a special permit, lies between Applan Way and the Marine Stadium at the north end of Bay Shore Avenue.

William H. Butler of Dana Point, who operates the Bay Sailing Association under a lease from the property owner, said he proposed to purchase the land, and erect a two-story building in the center of its north side, adjacent to the Marine Stadium fence.

Minesweepers Open to Public

All inbound ocean minesweepers at the Naval Station's Pier 9 will be open for visiting today and Sunday, from 1 to 4 p.m. The Navy suggests flat shoes for women visitors.

Car Burglarized

Burglars pried open the window of a car belonging to A. C. McKee, 2152 Stanbridge Ave., while it was parked near his home and removed a tape deck and tapes valued at $310, police reported Friday.

The lower floor of the building would be devoted to the proposed yacht club, and the second floor would house a restaurant and cocktail lounge, both open to the public, Butler told the commission.

"There definitely is a need for another yacht club on Alamitos Bay," Butler said, "and, beyond that, a need for boat storage and launching facilities."

The Planning Department recommended approval of the request. Although the property is zoned R-2 residential, the department said it feels such development is "unlikely and questionable" because of economics.

It noted that the operation of the Bay Sailing Association had proved to be "compatible" with the area, and pointed out that a yacht club alone does not generate sufficient revenue to purchase waterfront property and develop a clubhouse. The report noted that Long Beach Yacht Club and Alamitos Bay Yacht Club are both on public-leased land.

"While a run-of-the-mill food business would be unthinkable, a careful blend of yacht club and dining facility, such as proposed, is not an unreasonable prospect," Planning Director Ernest Mayer Jr. said.

BRAD PANKOFF, 5405 Applan Way, appeared before the commission to oppose the project, primarily on the basis of inadequate parking and because two proposed exits on Bay Shore Avenue would be immediately across from his home.

Pankoff also questioned the meaning of a "run-of-the-mill" food business.

"It appears to be a 'quality' restaurant, rather than a coffee shop," Mayer replied.

THE PLANNING Department said the special permit should have a condition that Butler reach an agreement with the city for use of 25 to 50 parking spaces on adjacent Marine Stadium property.

Pankoff said he felt this would interfere with use of the stadium for racing events and by water skiers, and asked if the Recreation Commission had been approached on this matter. Mayer said it had not.

"I feel somewhat uncomfortable about this," conceded Mayer. "I realize there is going to be a parking problem."

Butler contended, however, that his primary use of the Marine Stadium parking would be at night, when there would not be competing use.

Downey to Debate Proposed Freeway

By RALPH McCLURG
Staff Writer

The issue of the Norwalk-Century Freeway and the Downey City Council's on-again, off-again position on it will be heard at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday when the State Division of Highways holds a design hearing in Downey High School gymnasium.

The City Council, for more than a year strongly opposed to any freeway through the city, has instructed Ervin Spindel, city public works director, to present an alternate to the "Orange Route" adopted by the State Highway

INDEPENDENT PRESS-TELEGRAM

SATURDAY, APRIL 18, 1970 SECTION B—PAGE B-1
MARKETS ON PAGES B-6 & B-7

Commission July 24, 1968.

Prior to the plan's adoption in 1968, the council favored the Orange route, but subsequently refused to sign any freeway agreement because the "freeway would blight the city."

Councilman Donald Winton has been spearheading the opposition to the freeway.

The alternate proposal would take the freeway from a point near Clark

Avenue and Dunrobin Avenue to within 100 feet north of the south curb of Foster Road, which is the Downey-Bellflower boundary. It would also wipe out the Lewis and Carpenter Elementary Schools.

Mrs. Harold Stratton, 13606 Coldbrook Ave., said Friday that petitions containing about 1,000 signatures of residents of North Bellflower and the southern portion of the Downey Unified School District will be presented at the hearing in opposition to the alternate routing.

"It would eliminate two of our neighborhood schools," Mrs. Stratton said, "and we can visualize our children forced to attend classes in other sections of the city."

Previously, the Bellflower City Council did not oppose the freeway in its original routing inasmuch as it did not affect that city. However, Bellflower's mayor, Mary Lewis, said Friday she will be present at the hearing to support Bellflower residents' opposition.

Planners Allow 135 Apartments

Construction of a 135-unit apartment complex at 6925 Atlantic Ave. in a R-2 residential zone has been approved by the Planning Commission.

Commissioners granted a special permit to Atlantic Investment Co. for the development, which will be known as Villa Atlantic Apartments.

At the request of the applicant, commissioners agreed to delete a requirement recommended by the planning department, which would have assured the city of an easement for future development of De Forest Avenue at the rear of the property.

Dep. City Atty. Robert Austin said the city could not require the property owners, as a condition of the special permit, to give land to the city for street purposes unless it could make "a reasonable showing" that the project itself would cause traffic increases to make the street project necessary.

Planning director Ernest Mayer Jr. said he has no information on when De Forest Avenue might be built, but said if he "had to guess," he would say within three years.

Permits OK'd for 186 Luxury Apartments

Permits for two more units of a multimillion dollar luxury apartment development in Alamitos Heights were issued Friday by the Building Department.

The permits were issued to Lincoln Property Co., and cover construction of 186 apartment units and garages with a total valuation of nearly $3 million.

The second permit covers construction of 63 apartments and 109 parking spaces, with total value of $1,165,300, at 412 Bellflower Blvd.

MORLEY Construction Co. is the contractor on both sections of the project. Plans were drawn by the architectural firm of Krisel-Shapiro & Associates.

LARGER OF the two permits is one for 123 apartment units and 181 parking spaces at 576 Bellflower Blvd. The construction is valued at $1,780,295.

Tools Stolen

Tools valued at $335 were removed from the trunk of a car belonging to Klad C. Ybarra, 1614 Cherry Ave., while it was parked near his home, Long Beach police reported Friday.

In early March, the city issued a permit for the first section of the proposed apartment development. It covered 57 apartment units and 98 parking spaces for a total value of $990,756.

About four more sections, plus recreation room and swimming pool, will complete the project.

The day's permits pushed the total valuation for the month to nearly $6.5 million, and raised the year's total to more than $19.7 million.

Lions Put True Grit in L.B. Public Library

The annual Oscar awards always brings a run at Long Beach Public Libraries on the books from which the movies were adapted, and "True Grit" by Charles Portis is no exception this year.

City Librarian Frances Henselman pointed out that this year, thanks to the North Long Beach Lions Club, the visually handicapped also may read the Oscar-winning story.

The Lions donated funds for a number of large-print books, and the contribution came quite by chance, Mrs. Henselman said.

A partly sighted woman who patronizes the North Branch Library was chatting with another patron, and happened to mention that she had read all available large-print books and would like to find others.

The other patron was Wally Zimmerman, chairman of the North Long Beach Lions Club committee for sight preservation.

A few days later, Miss Doris Newell, librarian at the North Branch, received a $100 check from the Lions Club with the suggestion that she select some new, large-print books.

"True Grit" was one of the new books, and it arrived a couple of weeks before the Oscar announcements, Mrs. Henselman said.

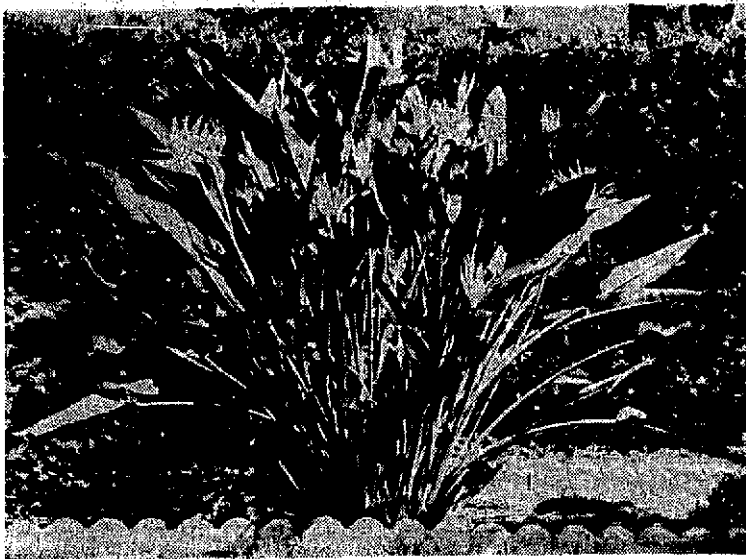

SALUTE TO A MASTER MUSICIAN

Fred Ohlendorf, music supervisor of the Long Beach Unified School District, received a special award for distinguished community service from the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce Friday night. Before receiving the surprise award at the chamber's annual banquet and installation of officers, Ohlendorf presented "Show Times '70," a musical salute to young Long Beach musicians featuring musical performers from four city high schools.

GARDENING

ROYAL BIRD OF PARADISE . . . Time for Pruning

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

You'll improve your old established Bird of Paradise plants if you first "prune them" no later than the first part of May. The pruning consists of cutting off 40 to 60 per cent of the leafage.

Don't cut the leaves down to the base unless you know for sure there is no embryo leaf or flower spike growing within the hollow area of the leaf stalk. Cut the leaf stalk back to just above the nubbin on the upper side of the stalk. Below the nubbin is the tight-fold hollow area within which a leaf or a flower spike might be developing.

NEXT STEP is to remove any remaining top-dressing of manure or spread-mulch material that didn't sift down into the soil. This is done according to the same principle as with roses after they've pruned them. It is done to eliminate build up of the annual layers of mulch which eventually chokes the base of the plant and slows down growth.

The soil must be thoroughly moist for the final job. Add bone meal or better yet a pellet-form fertilizer containing the phosphoric acid which is in bone meal, then spread a three-inch layer of manure over it and soak down slowly.

You wouldn't apply that much manure mulch if the plant is growing in a container, nor would you feed a container plant the same amount as you would if the plant were growing in the ground. It should be applied at least two times at intervals during the summer season.

Bird of Paradise (Royal) needs deep soakings when watered. The delay watering until they are thirsty.

Let's get one important but sometimes confusing garden expression cleared up: When speaking of "complete plant food" we mean "balanced plant food" or "all purpose plant food."

A COMPLETE plant food formulated for Southern soils means the fertilizer has a specific formulation of nitrogen, phosphorus, and potash, which are the primary plant-food elements. To this there is added smaller amounts of secondary plant-food elements which are calcium and sulphur; plus minor, trace, or microplant food elements of zinc, iron, and manganese.

The first three figures which you read on a plant food (fertilizer) sack, whether reading from left to right or from the top down, means nitrogen, phosphorus (phosphoric acid) and potash. The fertilizer sack label which lists the highest quantity in the second figure is considered to be the complete plant food for general feeding of shrubs, flowers, trees, fruits, vegetables and is used somewhat for lawns and ground covers.

Turf fertilizers containing a percentage of phosphorus and potash plus some trace minerals added are much better for Southern California lawns than those containing only nitrogen fertilizer.

GARDEN JOBS TO DO NOW

Now's still time to strike cuttings of camellias, carnations, mums and dahlias. Camellia cuttings are taken from the new growths that have hardened slightly. Bend the ends downward. If the new growth still buds but is stiff it is ready to make into cuttings to be rooted. New growths of azaleas hardened as camellias are ready for cuttings to be rooted. New top growth of dahlias, too, will root easily. Young side-branch growths of carnations still will root. Top half of mum growths root easily.

L.B. AREA CLUB NOTES

The Southern California Dahlia Society will hold its regular meeting at 7:30 p.m. today in the Community Room of the Glendale Savings and Loan building, 5535 E. Stearns St. Well known dahlia exhibitor Chester Boston will talk. The second dahlia root auction will be held at this meeting.

The Southland Rose Society in cooperation with Stonewood Merchants Association will display prize-winning roses, and flower arrangements throughout the mall of the Stonewood Shopping Center in Downey from noon until 6 p.m. today.

Also scheduled for today is the 10th annual orchid show at Alondra Park. Sponsored by the Los Angeles Department of Parks and Recreation in cooperation with the South Bay Orchid Society, the show will be held from 1 to 10 p.m. and from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Sunday in the Alondra County Park recreation building, 3535 Redondo Beach Blvd., Lawndale.

The 1970 Festival of Flowers sponsored by the Riverside Community Flower Show Association, will be held today from 2:00-9:00 p.m., and Sunday from 10:00 a.m.-8:00 p.m. The Show will be held at the Riverside Municipal Auditorium, 7th and Lemon Streets, Riverside.

Caro. Christianity of the Sunset Succulent Society will speak and show slides when the Long Beach Cactus Club meets Sunday in the Glendale Federal Community Room at 1:30.

There will be plant drawings and refreshments. The public is invited.

The Dominguez Lincoln Village Garden Club will hold its regular meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Building, 21156 Santa Fe Ave.

Visitors are welcome.

The North Long Beach branch of the National Fuchsia Society will meet Monday. The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the American Legion Hall at 59th St. and Grange Avenue. Visitors are welcome.

Cha-Kem-Co Rose & Garden Systemic Spray kills Sucking and Chewing insects 3 ways:

- 1 By direct contact when the spray hits them
- 2 By absorption of the active ingredients through the leaves
- 3 By longer killing action when spray material is taken up by the roots into the sap flow

In liquid form it acts faster than the dry.

Remember—it kills Powdery Mildew when both sides of the foliage are sprayed.

Address all questions to Garden Editor, Independent Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90801. No stamps or self-addressed envelopes, please. Answers are given only in this column.

Q. — Is there any way to treat ground (or tomato plants) before planting, to prevent those huge green worms and later small black worms? I killed green ones constantly. Later I sprayed others. Tomatoes spotted and spoiled. I was afraid I'd be poisoned with the tomatoes. Mrs. S. P. M.

A — No, there isn't a way to treat ground or tomatoes before planting to prevent the worms. You can do a good prevention job on worms and sap sucking insects on tomatoes if you would get a vegetable-tomato dust and faithfully dust the plants and the soil all around those plants as soon as they are planted, at weekly intervals until the fruit begins to ripen. This is the only answer for such a problem. The dust contains not only a control for sap sucking and chewing insects, but also a fungicide to control fungus diseases. Never work around tomatoes if you smoke. Always wash your hands before you work around tomatoes if you have smoked. Several agricultural authorities believe there might be a form of a disease in tobacco leaves that's transmitted to the tomato leafage by smokers.

Growing Things Job for All

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
NEW YORK (UPI) — Comes the happy day when fruits of your green thumb start to show. Here, in that plot well mixed with your brow's sweat a little yellow or green thing fragile and tender, breaks through the soil. Now starts the part of gardening with which the entire family can help — care of the growing things. Consider, for example, weeds. They'll be popping up, too, and must be fought.

The weeds rob plants of water, nutrients, and even space and light. As soon as the soil can be properly worked after each rain or irrigation, attack the weeds with a hoe. The primary value of hoeing is weed control. This should be shallow to avoid injuring the vegetable plant roots that lie near the surface.

If infrequent rain is a problem, use a plastic mulch or an organic one of straw, dried lawn clippings, leaves or other similar material to help conserve moisture and hold down weeds.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture says mulch must be applied early between rows and around plants to be effective. Such a mulch is valuable also around unstaked tomato, cucumber and bush squash plants to keep fruits from contact with the soil. This keeps the fruits clean and reduces losses from certain rot organisms that are carried in the soil. The mulch should be only about two inches deep or it will defeat its purpose by absorbing the water from any light rain before it reaches soil.

Authorities say the garden requires a moisture supply equivalent to about an inch of rain per week during the growing season. An inch of rain is equivalent to 900 gallons on a 30-by-5 foot plot.

How to stop lawn weeds now!

The easy way to clean out lawn weeds is to walk them away with Scott's Bonus or Plus-2.

There's no mess or fuss when you get rid of weeds with Scott's Bonus or Plus-2. Simply pour the clean, lightweight granules into your spreader and take a stroll over the lawn.

If you have dichondra you'll want Scott's Bonus. Two applications, eight weeks apart, clear out oxalis, soliva, chickweed and the like. Bonus makes weeds gradually disappear as it fertilizes dichondra to greener beauty. Two important jobs at once.

If you have a grass lawn ask for Scott's Plus-2. A single application clears out dandelions, plantain, chickweed and many other non-grass weeds. Full-feeds your lawn too, making good grass fill in where the weeds were.

Now's the time to use either Bonus or Plus-2. And now's the time to save dollars—during Scott's April Weeds-Away Sale. So hurry in to one of the stores listed below and SAVE.

L.B. Freeway Job to Close 6 Ramps

Six ramps connecting Long Beach Freeway and Artesia Boulevard will be closed Monday for about 10 months to permit construction of the Artesia Freeway interchange.

Only two ramps will remain open — the eastbound Artesia Boulevard on-ramp to southbound Long Beach Freeway, and the northbound Long Beach Freeway off-ramp to eastbound Artesia Boulevard.

Even these two ramps will eventually be closed, although they will be kept open as long as construction work permits, according to the State Division of Highways.

STATE HIGHWAY officials said most of the traffic using Artesia Boulevard originates to the east and normally turns on Long Beach Freeway to go south to the harbor, or north to the industrial area or to downtown Los Angeles.

Highway officials suggested that the easiest solution is for motorists to switch from Artesia Boulevard to either Alondra Boulevard or Del Amo Boulevard, both of which have interchanges with Long Beach Freeway.

Motorists who continue using Artesia Boulevard, however, are warned that, effective Monday, if they are westbound on Artesia and want to go north, they should turn right on Atlantic Avenue to Alondra Boulevard, entering the freeway on the Alondra on-ramp.

Westbound motorists on Artesia Boulevard who want to go south must continue west to Long Beach Boulevard, then turn left to the Long Beach Boulevard on-ramp, on the north side of Los Angeles River.

State highway officials are re-striping traffic lanes on Artesia Boulevard as it approaches Long Beach Boulevard from the east to create two left-turn lanes, to help ease the expected heavy traffic at the intersection.

Southbound traffic on Long Beach Freeway will be unable to exit at Artesia Boulevard and should posed to the southerly route.

She also noted the new Downey proposal would place the freeway less than 2.5 miles north of the Artesia Freeway where it bisects Bellflower.

For more than a year — and after an in-depth study — the Downey Chamber of Commerce has been feuding with the City Council about the freeway.

In a poll taken last month by the chamber, 88 per cent of those responding say the freeway should be routed through Downey.

The cities of South Gate (Hollywood) and Paramount already have signed freeway agreements to bring the proposed 105 Interstate route to Downey's doorway.

MAP INDICATES CLOSED FREEWAY RAMPS turn off either at Alondra or Del Amo Boulevards.

Northbound traffic on Long Beach Freeway will be able to use the Artesia Boulevard off-ramp to go east, at least for the present, the highway division said.

Northbound freeway traffic wishing to go west on Artesia Boulevard should take the Long Beach Boulevard off-ramp and go north on Long Beach Boulevard to Artesia Boulevard.

The situation will exist until construction of the Long Beach Freeway-Artesia Freeway interchange is completed, which is expected next December, the State Division of Highways said.

Meeting on Sheriff Cost Slated

Contractual costs for Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department police protection, and possible alternate plans for unified police service are scheduled as topic at the monthly meeting of the California Contract Cities Association Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

The dinner meeting to be attended by representatives from 33 contract cities will be held at T & J Restaurant, 8526 Bailey Blvd., Rosemead, according to Eugene Padelford, Artesia councilman and association president.

Richard DeBie, Paramount councilman who has been named chairman of a special committee to discuss the problems with Sheriff Peter Pitchess will give a report on the committee's findings.

CITY ATTORNEY John Todd and Marshall Julian, city manager, both of Lakewood are expected to give reports on alternate police protection plans being studied for the association.

The association's nominating committee will present a slate of nominees for the election of 1970-71 officers. They include James Jenkins, La Mirada councilman for president; Marvin Schwarzwalter, Lawndale, vice president; James Matkins, Pico-Rivera, secretary; Bill Cheek, Lomita, treasurer; and Clyde Bernhardt, Lomita, treasurer.

BRIEFLY... Controversy - Lutheran, So. Baptist Presbyterian and Catholic Style

By LES RODNEY

Disagreement, with some inevitable tension, exists within every major religious denomination in the land. It most often centers around the questions of what are the fundamental tenets of the faith not to be changed, and what may need rethinking and modernization in order to successfully bring the unchanging message to a changing world.

An interesting expression of this earnest disagreement was put forward at the recent San Diego convention of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, most conservative of the three major Lutheran bodies, by Dr. John H. Tietjen, president of Concordia Seminary of St. Louis.

Answering a delegate disturbed by signs of changes, Tietjen said: "The Lutheran Church is a church body in the process of change. Once an isolated and insulated Germanic cultural island, it is no longer cut off from society as it once was. Ideas from the outside impinge upon the church too. Some people inside the church hold that we are losing what we once stood for. I do not agree. For I believe that the historical doctrinal positions remain the same; only we are learning to adapt them to modern circumstances; we are learning to listen more carefully."

The church, he said, is trying to understand what different persons in the past meant by different words. He cited the word "inerrant" as applied to Scriptures.

"Many Christians agree with us that the Scriptures are inerrant," he said. "For some, this means the Bible is the only Word of God and an infallible norm of faith and life. Others focus their stress on the word 'inerrant,' meaning to point to the Scriptures as containing no factual errors of any kind. We think the Scriptures are inerrant because they do not let us down. They are true."

NEWS OF RELIGION

This is a subtle point. Put a little more bluntly, it could be understood to say: Scripture is basically inerrant and infallible and will not let us down because it is the Word of God, and thus true. But because it is the Word of God given to us through human hands, even though inspired human hands, it is pointless to get up tight about every single word or phrase.

THIS VERY same debate has created rifts in the hitherto monolithically appearing Southern Baptist Convention.

Dr. W. A. Criswell, president, supports the view that every sentence and word in the Bible is correct and not subject to question. In fact, he wrote a book entitled "Why I Believe the Bible to Be Literally True," which drew some static from other Southern Baptists who asserted it made it impossible for them to talk to most college students.

Criswell invited those who do not believe in the convention's statements of faith to leave the denomination and find one more to their liking. Some Southern Baptists held this to be a sort of "loyalty test" alien to Baptist traditions. But most agreed with the president that if you belong to something, you ought to agree with its basic doctrines.

Last month, the man who made an unsuccessful bid in June for the presidency against Criswell said he was accepting Criswell's invitation to leave. Dr. William C. Smith Jr., director of religious activities for men, and professor of religion at the University of Richmond, announced he was giving up both posts when his university contract runs out in June, and will then join another denomination. He did not name his choice. We'll watch for it, for your interest.

MEANWHILE, BACK at the United Presbyterian ranch, strong differences on a few points have again emerged, three years after the great debate on the Confession of 1967, which added an updated creed to the old standbys.

Hopefully calling it "Operation Understanding," a day-long series of debates will be held on three hot questions next Sunday, April 25, at Glendale Presbyterian Church, in each case presenting an able Presbyterian spokesman for each side.

The announced idea is to bring clarity to positions and motivations which may be widely misunderstood, and to air differing views through dialogue. The three issues to be formally debated in the "longest day," starting 9:30 a.m., are:

Resolved: that the stated purposes of the National Council of Churches are appropriate and worthy and are being fulfilled to such an extent that investment in the Council by the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. is an act of good stewardship.

Resolved: that the current social situation and the obligation of the church are such that the United Presbyterian Church should continue to invest funds and personnel in organizations committed to attacking social problems even though these organizations may deem it advisable to assist other organizations which are willing to resort to violence to change political and economic systems.

Referring to various black organizations, that puts it on the line and sets up a sizzler and finally:

Resolved: that the educational, mission and evangelism programs of our denomination are so preoccupied with man's temporal wants that the primary need for personal redemption is obscured and neglected.

We would guess that number one has the best chance of winning some.

Orange Co. Seeks Road, Bridge Bids

Orange County is readying calls for bids for a new Lincoln Avenue bridge over the Santa Ana River and a mile of paving on Newport Avenue near Skyline Drive.

The bridge might cost $622,000 to build for four lanes of traffic. It will be an entirely new structure, since the present two-lane bridge must be removed because its heavy pilings in the river bed restrict flood flows during times of heavy runoff, according to Flood Control Engineer H. George Osborne. The bridge, near the town of Olive, was built 40 years ago.

Rare Bible in Family More Than 3 Centuries

By LES RODNEY

Is this the oldest family Bible in the area?

It could be. In any case, Mrs. Claude Covey, of 15129 Cabell Ave., Bellflower (the family operates Covey Landscaping in that city), is possessor of a Bible which has not only been handed down from generation to generation for hundreds of years, but is also one of the few Bibles of its kind in this country — estimated some years ago as only seven.

It is a "Breeches Bible." The flyleaf, surviving the centuries, with the help of a little Scotch tape, tells that it was "imprinted at London by the Deputies of Christopher Barker, Printer to the Queenes most Excellent Majesty, 1599."

The Huntington Library,

we learned via a phone call also has a Breeches Bible, printed several years later. A spokesman confirmed that it has become a rarity in this country.

Preceding the King James Version, this translation from the original Greek got its colorful name from the fact that it used the word "breeches" instead of "aprons" in the 7th verse of the third chapter of Genesis. "... and they knew that they were naked, and they sewed figge leaves together, and made themselves breeches."

Except for a few missing pages near the start, the yellowed parchment pages, beautifully printed in Old English, are all in place and legible.

An inscription page between Zechariah and the start of the New Testament with the Gospel According to Matthew, contains handwritten names and dates of the Wickes family in this country, starting with "Joseph Wickes Jr. Born June the 15th Day 1763," thirteen years before the Declaration of Independence.

Mrs. Covey is a descendant of the Wickes. "This Bible by tradition," she says, "has been handed down to the oldest member of the family, the first born. It was given to me by my mother, Mrs. Helen Bassett (now also of Bellflower), when we lived in Rochester, New York. My great grandmother was Ellen Wickes, a granddaughter of the first Joseph Wickes who is inscribed."

There is some historical uncertainty about the time the precious Bible came to her ancestors, but it was believed to have been in England during the 1600s.

Now 371 years form its laborious imprinting in Shakespeare's England, it is the prized possession of a Bellflower family. But Mrs. Covey doesn't think in terms of locking it carefully away from possibility of being touched.

"The interesting thing to me when I look at it is to think of how many people in different times of history have read it and turned its pages," she says. "So why should I break that by sticking it behind glass or where nobody today can look at it?"

The Coveys have five children

INSPIRER OF MISSION WORK

Rev. Dr. Robert B. Munger, professor of evangelism and church strategy at Fuller Theological Seminary, will climax a five-day Mission Festival at Covenant Presbyterian, Third and Atlantic, Sunday at 9 and 11 a.m. services. While pastor 17 years of First Presbyterian of Berkeley, more young men entered into ministry from that church than from any in the U.S., and many became missionaries. His witness, says the host pastor, Rev. Dr. H. David Burcham, "contains a unique combination of evangelical fervor, social relevance and devotional spirit."

Orthodox Easter

The Eastern Orthodox Church, which conforms to a decision made in 325 A.D., on Sunday will mark the beginning of Holy Week with Palm Sunday services and celebrate Easter on April 26.

FROM THE PULPIT

While other Baptist Churches are departing from Baptist distinctives and leaning to interdenominationalism, Calvary Baptist is still a Baptist Church. We believe in Baptist doctrine. We believe that the Bible teaches more than salvation. It teaches the church and its purpose and ordinances. A real Baptist can never be an interdenominationalist. Baptists do not believe that church ordinances are unimportant, nor are they subject to men's whims concerning them. We love and appreciate every Christian, but church membership and church ordinances are a very important part of the Great Commission. Compromise is a dangerous road and its danger intensifies as the journey progresses. One compromise calls for another. Eventually compromise beds down with the Ecumenical movement and the National Council of Churches. What a sad ending for some churches that start out well. If you are a Baptist, you need to be in a Baptist Church. If you are not a Baptist, study the Word. You will come to understand the church and its ordinances. It is precious to those who know it. It is precious to Christ. Christ loved the church and gave himself for it. Come to Calvary Baptist for you!

PASSOVER RITES SET MONDAY

Passover, Judaism's oldest religious festival, will begin at sundown Monday, and will be observed for seven days by Reform Jews and eight by Conservative and Orthodox.

The holiday celebrating the deliverance from slavery in Egypt about 1220 B.C., begins with the "seder," a ritualized meal containing symbolic foods. The annual recounting of the story by the head of the family, in response to the question by the youngest boy, is an act of remembrance in accordance with instructions in the Book of Exodus.

The seder has traditionally been a family event, but in recent years many synagogues have served community seders, retaining the same spirit.

CROSSING DENOMINATIONAL LINES

Four area ministers of widely differing Protestant traditions pose to symbolize exchanges of pulpits during "Bridges of Reconciliation Sunday" on April 26th. Local initiative, which will involve exchanges in Long Beach, Bellflower and Seal Beach, including some choirs and lay leaders as well as pastors, was suggested by area Council of Churches, whose executive secretary, Rev. Donald Lindblom, calls it "a local expression of our desire to grow closer together." From left, Rev. Wilford Denton of College Park Church of God, Rev. George Johnson of Christ Lutheran, Rev. J. BRIEFLY... Tests Put Mt. Ararat Wood Long After Noah sort of clear cut "Aye" verdict.

Anyhow, the day will wind up (at 4:30 p.m.) with a joint service of praise and dedication by all the debaters.

NOT ABOUT to be left behind on controversy these days, the Roman Catholic Church will present a prominent cardinal and three noted bishops next week on "current problems within the church and questions from concerned parishioners and friends" in sessions at Blessed Sacrament Church of Hollywood.

On Monday, the Most Rev. Joseph B. Brunini, bishop of Natchez-Jackson, Miss., will speak on "The Catholic Church and the Black Man." Thursday, the Most Rev. Robert J. Dwyer, archbishop of Portland, Ore., and national Catholic columnist, will discuss "Conscience vs. Church Authority." Thursday, John Cardinal Wright of the Sacred Congregation for the Clergy in Vatican City (formerly Pittsburgh bishop) will speak on "Priests' Problems in the '70s." Friday, the Most Rev. Hugh A. Donohoe, bishop of Fresno, will discuss "The Church's Involvement in Labor Today." (If the word "grapes" is mentioned, nobody will be amazed.)

All are at 8 p.m., open to the public, with a question and answer period after the talks. These are certainly the times for questions and answers.

A piece of wood found on Mount Ararat and believed by some to have once been part of Noah's Ark is of much more recent origin, it was said this week following chemical tests at UCLA.

The L-shaped oak beam, discovered in 1955, has been dated as 1230 years old, plus or minus 60 years, by Dr. Rainer Berger, head of the UCLA Isotope Laboratory.

"The beam came from a tree felled around 700 A.D., or roughly 3000 years after Noah is believed to have embarked," says Dr. Berger.

Since its discovery at the 13,500-foot level of Mt. Ararat in eastern Turkey, the piece of oak wood has been the subject of widespread scientific and theological speculation. Advocates of the Ark theory have quoted from the Book of Genesis that the Ark landed in "the mountains of Ararat" after the flood, and have stressed that the discovery was made well above the timeline, bare of any indigenous trees.

Dr. Berger's date coincides closely with that established earlier by the National Physical Laboratory of Teddington, England, which put the wood's age at 1190 years, plus or minus 90 years.

However, there has been some question whether the English scientists had removed all contaminants which might have impregnated the wood at a later date and affected the accuracy of the tests.

To remove doubts, Dr. Berger thoroughly purified the wood before dating it through the carbon-14 or "atomic clock" technique. This method has established the age of numerous archaeological objects by measuring the loss of radioactive carbon in the remains of what were once living plants, animals or humans.

Adding further weight to the UCLA and English dates are tests conducted on a second piece of wood discovered last summer near the site of the 1955 find. Tests at the University of Pennsylvania gave an age of 1323 years, plus or minus 48 years, for the 1969 find, a date apparently also confirmed through measurements at the Geochron Laboratory of Cambridge, Mass.

Dr. Berger admits, however, that the various scientific tests do not explain how the oak beams came to be found well above the timeline in a region of permanent glaciation.

The UCLA geochemist and historian speculates that devout persons may have built a shrine or hermitage at the spot some 1200 to 1300 years ago, to mark the supposed resting place of the Ark. He has suggested this idea to prominent historians of the Byzantine era, but so far they have found no historical reports on the existence of such a shrine.

However, edifices mark-

CONFIDENT LIVING

For Better Life, Turn Off Worry

By NORMAN VINCENT
PEALE

To turn off worry! This is an important problem for countless thousands of people. And if we don't turn off worry it surely will turn us off. In this so-called enlightened age too many of our citizens are the harassed and unhappy victims of that miserable phenomenon of human life called worry.

Some statistics have been worked out to show the needlessness of worry. For instance, the figures show that 40 per cent of the things we worry about will never happen. And 30 per cent of our worries are about old decisions which cannot be altered. Twelve per cent of worries center in criticisms, mostly untrue, made by people who want to make other people feel inferior. Ten per cent of worries are related to health, worsening your health while you worry about it. And finally, 8 per cent of our worries might be legitimate and very likely you can do something about them.

IN OTHER words, a very small percentage of the things we worry about contain actual reasons for worry. If you dissect your worries and ruthlessly take them apart, you will find that there is very little substance to many of them. And have you ever noticed how little and unimportant even some big worries seem after years have gone by?

Of course there are actual legitimate worries. But there are solutions for such anxiety. And one is to try to get on top of that worry and change it into rational thinking, for until you begin to think, you will get nowhere. Worry sends the mind round and round in the same groove, never coming to any real conclusions. But thinking works its way clearly through problems to an answer.

The strongest and best solution to worry is faith — faith in the future, faith in yourself, and faith in God. Faith, when cultivated, gives the courage and skill to overcome your fears. Faith can cancel out fear. But positive thinking must be practiced. Shift your attention deliberately from the thing you are worrying about and let positive thoughts take over. The mind can only occupy itself with the object of its attention, and if you give attention to faith, you will turn off worry.

Worry and anxiety constitute the most devastating enemy of human well-being. Take the word "worry." It comes from an old Anglo-Saxon term, "wrygan." And wrygan means to strangle or to choke. A person who is worrying is strangling himself.

I remember reading an article on the earliest inhabitants of Britain. Archeologists had found hieroglyphics carved on a stone cliff in Britain. And they finally figured out that those hieroglyphics depicted the emotions of man. And what do you suppose depicted worry? It was a hieroglyphic showing a huge wolf sinking his teeth into the neck of a man.

HOW ACCURATE that is. The neck is the bridge between the mind and the body. And when the teeth of worry sink into it they cut off the creative and developmental powers of a human being. How can you be creative if you let worry sink into your mind and make you sick? How often do we hear someone say, "I am sick with worry"? Maybe that is not meant literally, but it really is true. A prominent doctor once said that bad emotions can make us sick. Take a big dose of bad emotions over a period of time and put worry at the top of that list and you will likely make yourself ill.

To feel better, begin to think and talk life up. Don't think and talk trouble. It only activates more of it. It has been said that worry is the interest paid in advance by those who borrow trouble. As you think in stead of worrying, you will forget yourself and your troubles and maybe you will find yourself. You will grow happier in this great, exciting world, once you get outside your little constrictive self-worry world. To make life really good, turn off worry.

REV. BRETHEIM

Install New Pastor at Holy Trinity

Rev. J. Bernhard Bretheim will be installed Sunday as new pastor of Lutheran Church of the Holy Trinity, 1900 E. Carson St., in special ceremonies during the 10:30 a.m. services.

Pastor Bretheim, 45, a native of Edinburg, N.D., comes to Long Beach from St. Philips church of Carmel, one of the four "mission parishes" of the American Lutheran Church which he successfully built into permanent status, two with building programs and two others reaching self-sustaining status. Holy Trinity, organized in 1941, is the "oldest" church he will have pastored.

A graduate of Augsburg College and Theological Seminary in Minneapolis, he is the son of a retired Lutheran pastor, and one of his brothers is pastor of a Lutheran church in Wisconsin. The new Long Beach pastor has settled here with wife Hildur, son Dan, a junior at Jordan High, and daughter JoAnn, ninth grader at Hughes Junior High. His ministry has been characterized by strong emphasis on person-to-person approach, and youth activities. He has also been personally active in the field of church music.

Rev. Dr. Gaylerd Falde, Southland denomination leader, will give the sermon and officiate. Liturgist will be Rev. Robert Bergeson, chaplain of Martin Luther Hospital of Anaheim, who has been interim pastor since the death of Pastor Nash.

Following the installation there will be a reception to meet the Bretheims.

PILGRIM STATUE BLESSED BY POPE

Fatima Replica in L.B.

A special pilgrim statue of Our Lady of Fatima, a replica of the one visited by millions in Portugal, will be in three Long Beach churches Monday and Tuesday.

The statue is one of 25 which were blessed by Pope Paul VI at Fatima on May 13, 1967, the 50th anniversary of the reported appearance of Our Lady to three children. The statues were delivered to 25 nations through the Blue Army of Our Lady, a lay organization dedicated to prayer as a channel of peace, and to the promotion of "Our Lady's Peace Plan."

The statue, on a tour of the United States, will be in St. Cornelius Church, 5500 Wardlow St., Monday from 1 to 4 p.m., with a special Mass at 1:30 p.m.; and at St. Anthony's, 540 Olive Ave., from 5 to 8 p.m., with a Mass at 6 p.m. On Tuesday it will be at St. Matthew's, 672 Temple Ave., from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m., with Mass at 11 a.m.

The statue will be carried into the churches in procession with the color guard of Knights of Columbus, and committees from each parish will assist in arrangements, according to John J. Cleary, Long Beach chairman of the Blue Army.

Asks Councils Aid 'Earth Day'

Churches throughout the country are being asked to participate.

Dr. Cynthia C. Wedel, president of the National Council of Churches, has asked local and state church council leaders to "highlight the religious dimensions of the ecological problem" and to participate in the Earth Day teach-ins being planned Wednesday on university and high school campuses.

"The students who have created this special day have come to the church for help," says Mrs. Wedel. She called the environmental crisis "a matter of urgent concern" to the church and announced that the NCC was in the process of mounting a major program related to ecological problems.

'Voices of Jerusalem' Concert Celebration

The Voices of Jerusalem, nationally famed gospel singing group from Long Beach, will celebrate their eighth anniversary with a Service-in-Song Celebration Sunday, 2:45 p.m. in Christ Second Baptist Church, 1471 California Ave.

Joining in tribute to the non-profit "Voices" at the gala event will be eight other musical groups, including the Los Angeles Community Choir, "The Melody Queens, Carrie's and Company, Terry-Lynn Community Choir, Jerry West and the UCLA Ensemble, and church gospel choruses.

Mayor Edwin Wade of Long Beach will be among honored guests.

GOINGS ON

Ex-Gang Leader at Youth Rally

Nicky Cruz, now 23, street gang leader whose story was told in "The Cross and the Switchblade," will be featured speaker Monday, 7:30 p.m. at the Wilkerson Youth Rally in Melodyland Christian Center, Anaheim. Andrae Crouch and the Disciples will also appear. John Barry, master of choristers and noted organist from St. Luke's Episcopal Church (he came here from England), will present a recital Sunday, 7:30 p.m. in Our Saviour's Lutheran, 370 Junipero Ave., on the three-manual, 30 rank Reuter organ, with antiphonal division at rear of church. Rev. Arthur R. Bartlett, port chaplain director of the Episcopal seamen's centers at San Pedro and Long Beach, will address the adult forum group of Christ Lutheran, 6500 Stearns St., Sunday 9:45 a.m., with slides telling of his work in a converted bus. All invited.

The "Sound Foundation" of Azusa Pacific College, a musical ensemble of singers and instrumentalists, will present a concert Sunday, 7 p.m. in Norwalk Southern Baptist, 13210 Studebaker Road, featuring contemporary Christian music as well as classics and Negro spirituals. No admission charged. St. Paul's Lutheran, 2283 Palo Verde Ave., invites the public to the dedication of its new organ in a concert Sunday, 4 p.m., with the Senior Choir and organist Glenn Runkle, a liturgical music college graduate. Rev. and Mrs. Claire Martin, 25-year missionaries to Columbia, will speak Friday, 7:30 p.m. in Harbor City Foursquare, 835 W. 255th St. Youth rides again at Los Altos United Methodist, 5950 E. Willow St., with a concert featuring folk music some original, all arranged and presented by the Chapel Choir, junior and senior high and college age young men and women, Sunday, 7:30 p.m.

TELE-VUES L.A. Little Emmy Awards Tonight

By GEORGE ERES
TV-Radio Editor

The Los Angeles Chapter of the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences will present its awards for bests in various categories at 9:30 tonight, on Ch. 7.

The event should not be confused with the national Emmy Awards, which Ch. 7 also will air, June 7.

For the Little Emmys, Monty Hall and Barbara McNair will be co-hosts and among celebrity presenters will be Martin Landau, Barbara Bain, Jimmy Durante, Robert Young, Debbie Reynolds, Greg Morris, Ken Berry, Jackie Joseph, Kaye Ballard, Inger Stevens, Ralph Story and Chet Huntley. Entertainers scheduled to appear include Rowan and Martin, George Carline, Miss McNair, Rosey Greier and The Young Saints.

NETWORK preemptions because of the Apollo 13 situation forced delayed airing of the Bing Crosby "Cooling It" show. It was inserted in the schedule a couple of nights later without enough advance notice to alert all viewers who may have wanted to see it. I don't think they missed too much, although it was a pleasant enough hour; it had some sharp dancing and Flip Wilson.

I have a feeling of dismay when major productions like this find it necessary to bend to commercialism to the extent this one does — title and title song have a more than coincidental affinity with the air-cooling product sponsor — but no big thing.

What I can't quite shake off is the childishness of concept of the show, based on the leisure theme. Somehow, Bing Crosby urging everybody to cut out the hustle and bustle and decrying the hurlyburly of everyday life is like Marie Antoinette suggesting that those who have no bread might eat cake.

PAUL Fidler and Patti Long, a couple of Long Beach magicians will appear on "The All American College Show," 5:30 p.m. Sunday, Ch. 4.

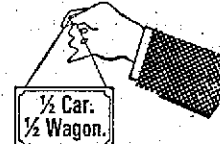

Paul is a sophomore at California State College, Long Beach; Patti is at Long Beach City College. Both are majoring in Theater Arts. They have won four consecutive Pacific Coast "Best Magician

Leave It To Larry By LARRY MEDER HARBOR CHEVROLET

Someone once said there is more talent in the audience than there is on the stage and this probably applies to the following situation.

A certain young man with high hopes for a vocal career entered an amateur hour contest on television and was doing beautifully in his rich baritone voice until he reached the end of the second stanza then forgot how the third stanza began!

In a desperate effort to recapture the elusive neat line of the lyrics, he sang the second stanza 4 times in a row and still couldn't remember how the song finished!

Completely flustered and perspiring profusely, he motioned for the band to cease playing and said:

"Folks—I'm awful sorry but I just can't think of the ending!"

In complete unison, the audience chorused back, "That's all we can think of!"

Folks—when you drive into Harbor—you are a stranger here but once!

THREE IN A ROW—ONE TO GO!

Wilt's Free Throws (!)

By DOUG IVES
Staff Writer

Wilt Chamberlain is the last man in the world the Lakers would want to take pressure free throws, but the big man delivered two of them with 17 seconds remaining Friday night that gave his team a wild 115-114 overtime victory over the Atlanta Hawks.

A Forum crowd of 17,183 watched one of the sloppiest Laker performances in years, but they went home happy that their team now is virtually unbeatable in the Western Division final playoff series with a commanding 3-0 lead.

The hero — next to Chamberlain — was John Tresvant, who made his first appearance in the series with 8:08 remaining and wound up with 14 in overtime, were wild and ragged, and also physical as referees Don Murphy and Jack Madden let the players do everything but draw blood.

When it was all over the officials again came in for criticism from Atlanta coach Richie Guerin, who had a logical beef this time.

The disputed play came just before Chamberlain's free throws. Baylor tried a long jumper with only a few ticks left on the 24-second clock and the shot didn't hit anything. Atlanta's Bill Bridges had the rebound for a moment but lost it to Keith Erickson, who then missed a jumper. Two seconds later Chamberlain was fouled.

Guerin contended that Bridges never had control of Baylor's shot, so the 24-second clock should have run out before Erickson got off his jumper. The timer ruled Bridges had possession, and he reset the clock.

"I can't believe they could make that ruling," yelled Guerin. "Bridges only had the ball for a moment. There was a third official, but he didn't do anything."

In the playoffs, an alternate official (Darrel Garrelson in this game) is stationed next to the timer to keep him "alert." He cannot overrule the timer, however.

Guerin said he would not protest.

"What good would it do?" asked Guerin. "It was a judgment call."

Still, Atlanta stood a good chance of winning with Chamberlain going to the foul line and the Hawks ahead by one. Wilt is a terrible free thrower (51 per cent lifetime), who had failed on 9 of 15 until this critical point.

With the game on the line, Wilt threaded the first one perfectly. The second bounced around and trickled in. It was the only time in the extra session that the Lakers led.

Atlanta called time out to set up a Butch Beard shot. The rookie, who had replaced Guerin and played brilliantly, couldn't get free, and fed to Walt Bellamy, who tried to drive on Chamberlain. Wilt deflected the dribble to Bridges and his wild hook at the buzzer wasn't close.

Chamberlain called his free throws "the biggest

Lew 'Unbelievable' as Bucks Put Knicks on Run, 101-96

Combined News Services

MILWAUKEE — Lew Alcindor grabbed a record 31 rebounds and combined with Bob Dandridge for 55 points to pace Milwaukee to a 101-96 victory over New York in the third game of the National Basketball Assn. Eastern Division playoff finals Friday night.

New York leads the best-of-7 series, 2-1, with the teams playing game No. 4 Sunday in Milwaukee.

Alcindor, the 7-foot-1 NBA rookie of the year, scored 33 points, 20 in the first half, while Dandridge added 22, with 15 coming in the first two periods.

Milwaukee was in command all the way after taking a 22-11 lead late in the first quarter.

Willis Reed led the Knicks with 21 points and only 10 rebounds, but was held to only seven points in the first half.

Coach Larry Costello called it Alcindor's best game ever — but the Bucks star wasn't sure whether it was his play or the shortcomings of Reed — that proved to be the undoing of the Knicks.

"Lew was just superb," said Costello. "It was his greatest game ever — over-all. He was unbelievable. Offense, defense, every phase of the game. He was just great. It was his most complete game ever."

"I wouldn't say that," said Alcindor. "I'm just glad we won."

However, when it was pointed out that he outplayed Reed at both ends of the floor, Alcindor smiled and answered: "I don't know if that was my fault or his. He's just going to have to do something about that — I hope he doesn't."

Olivares is a solid 12-5 favorite on the strength of his brilliant record. In addition to being undefeated in 56 matches, Ruben has registered 54 knockouts.

Castillo, the better boxer, has managed to record 20 knockouts in his 34 bouts. It seems unlikely the affair will go the 15-round distance.

Olivares, 22, has been a busy young man. He has averaged 12 fights per year since turning professional in 1956. His knockout percentage (.964) is the best in boxing history. Ruben captured the title last Aug. 22 at the Forum when he stopped Austral-

Castillo, 25, earlier had met Rose in a title quest but lost a split decision at the Forum. The decision

Angels Lose 'Little League' Tussle, 7-5

By DON MERRY
Staff Writer

It was little league night at the Big A Friday.

As it turned out, it was also little league night on the field.

In a fitting observance of the occasion, the Kansas City Royals, and the Angels conspired to produce a product that was all too reminiscent of the sandlot. In the end the Royals prevailed, 7-5, defeating the Angels for the first time in four meetings this season.

But that's not the half of it. The winning pitcher was a gentleman named Dave Morehead who has spent seven years trying to get the best of the Halos. He entered the game with a career mark of 0-10 opposite the Anaheim and his ERA was a gaudy 5.07. He had not won a game since September of 1968 and, as a matter of fact, he had not won a game — period — since April 16, 1969.

But Morehead was a pitcher of prominence Friday, working seven creditable innings before Jim Rooker bailed him out with two impressive innings of relief.

The Angels almost kept their record intact against Morehead but they were their own worst enemies, committing numerous errors of omission and commission.

Some brutal fielding plays allowed the Royals to cash in unearned runs in the first and third innings, and before they knew it, the Angels were looking at a 3-0 deficit. They scored twice in the third to make it close, fell back again when the Royals scored a brace in the fifth, then caught the visitors on Jay Johnstone's three-run homer in the fifth.

But Tom Murphy couldn't stand the prosperity. He surrendered back-to-back singles by George Spriggs and Eddie Kirkpatrick before Amos Otis delivered the decisive run with a sacrifice fly off Eddie Fisher.

Morehead, who sat out much of last season with a severe groin injury, mopped his forehead when it was over and announced how sweet it was to get the black cat off his back.

"I've been waiting seven years for this moment," he said as a smile scampers across his face, "but I was beginning to wonder if it would ever come. I haven't pitched badly

ORIOLES' DIVE HITS 3

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Danny Cater's bases-loaded triple in the 11th inning enabled the New York Yankees to hand the Baltimore Orioles their third successive loss, 4-1, Friday night.

Baltimore opened its season with five consecutive victories before suffering the three losses in a row.

Horace Clarke led off the 11th with a single. After Jerry Kenney struck out, Clark advanced to second when Bobby Murcer grounded out to Boog Powell. Ray White was intentionally walked and Pete Ward then hit a grounder to shortstop Mark Belanger.

Belanger bobbled the ball and then flipped to Johnson at second for the force but Johnson wasn't covering the bag and all runners were safe. Belanger was first charged with the error but then it was changed and given to Johnson.

Cater followed with a looping fly ball in the left-field corner that scored all three runners and decided the game.

Dick Hall, who pitched the 11th inning, was charged with the loss. Lindy McDaniel pitched the final two innings in relief of Mel Stottlemyre and got credit for the win.

The Orioles tied the score at 1-1 in the eighth inning when Brooks Robinson singled, moved to second on a sacrifice and tallied on Terry Crowley's single.

Until then, Stottlemyre was breezing along with a three-hitter and a 1-0 lead fashioned in the fourth inning when Murcer singled, went to third on a single by White and scored on former Oriole Curt Blefary's sacrifice fly to right field.

Seaver Streak Hits 12

NEW YORK (AP) — Bud Harrelson, not known for his power, drilled the first out-of-the-park home run of his major league career and tripled home another run as the New York Mets whipped Philadelphia 6-0 Friday for Tom Seaver's 12th consecutive regular season triumph.

Seaver (2-0), who won his last 10 decisions during the 1969 pennant race, allowed eight hits, but only two after the fourth inning. Seven of his eight strikeouts came in the first four innings when he pitched out of several jams.

Harrelson's only previous home run in 1,499 official at-bats came Aug. 17, 1967, in Pittsburgh. That was a pop fly down the right field line on which Harrelson circled the bases while the Pirates argued that it was a foul ball.

But the 5-foot-11, 150-pound shortstop jumped on a pitch from loser Grant Jackson in the first inning Friday and lined it over the 358-foot sign into the left-field bullpen.

Two innings later, after Al Weis reached on an error and scored on Tommie Agee's double, Harrelson powered a long fly over right fielder Ron Stone's head for a triple. He scored on Joy Foy's double.

Catfish Tames Twins

OAKLAND (UPI) — Dave Duncan ripped a two-run homer Friday night as the Oakland A's exploded in the middle innings for a 5-2 win over the Minnesota Twins.

Jim (Catfish) Hunter recovered from a first-inning home run to tame the Twins and gain his second win in three starts. The veteran righthander allowed five hits, only three of them after Cesar Tovar's single and Tony Oliva's two-run homer in the first.

ANGELS---

(Continued from Page C-1) against the Angels, but early in my career it was running into their best pitchers. I remember one season Dean Chance shut me out three times.

"He was facing a heck of a problem and lots of pressure with that kind of record," Royals' manager Charlie Metro allowed. "But he hung right in there and won himself a job. I now consider him a member of the starting rotation. I know he can be a big help to us."

The Angels scored a big success in one category, however. There were 24,154 in attendance and there were smiles at the executive level if not at the managerial one.

ANGEL ANGELS: Clyde Wright (1-1) and Wally Bunker (2-2) will be the pitching protagonists tonight when the teams continue their three-game series. Wright worked six innings and received credit for the victory in the Angels' 11-7 win April 10, while Bunker was the loser in the following day, serving a pair of three-run homers to Alex Johnson. The Angels hit their eighth home run off KC pitcher but they've swatted five so far this term, including two by Johnson and Renteria. Luis Alcaraz was the recipient of a "sweet walk" in the second inning when catcher Mike Odum detected Mike Alcaraz going to his mouth while on the mound.

Royals were counting on Mike Scuderi to be their fourth starter, but he is on the disabled list with a chronic infection. He had contracted the disease while playing winter ball in Venezuela. Morehead and Renteria Nelson will start the rotation. Nelson worked only 11 innings in Florida and missed three innings against the Angels in that wild 11-7 affair. Angel pitchers have held rival batters to a collective 215 average, while the Angel average is a robust 3.10.

Surging Reds Dump Giants

CINCINNATI (AP) — Hal McRae's tying pinch-hit homer and Tony Perez's three-run blast brought the Cincinnati Reds from behind in the ninth inning to an 8-5 victory over San Francisco Friday night that ran their winning string to four games.

Willie McCovey's fourth homer in as many games gave the Giants a 5-4 edge in the top of the ninth, but McRae opened the bottom half with his first homer of the young season, retying the game.

Pete Rose singled, Tommy Helms sacrificed and Bob Tolan was given an intentional walk before Perez tagged reliever Frank Linzy for the winning shot, his fifth homer of the year.

DETROIT (AP) — Jim Northrup doubled home Al Kaline from first base with two out in the 11th inning and the Detroit Tigers beat the Boston Red Sox 3-2 Friday for their fourth consecutive victory.

Kaline walked with one out against Ken Brett, starting the Red Sox to the end of their three-game winning string.

It looked as if Reggie Smith's two-run homer in the first inning would hold up until the Tigers rallied for a run in the eighth to tie.

Mike Andrews had led off the game with a single and Smith followed with his second homer, one of only four hits off Joe Niekro, who pitched eight innings.

Detroit got one run back in the bottom of the first on Mickey Stanley's double, a sacrifice bunt and a ground out.

Saints Muffle Leaders

By RICK ARTHUR

St. Anthony High pitcher John Engelke recorded his first shutout of the year Friday as the Saints blanked league-leading Bishop Amat, 4-0, in an Angelus League baseball game at Wardlow Park.

Engelke allowed only four hits, all singles, and

Davis' Bludgeon Beats Pasadena

Mike Davis drove in three runs and Jim Lemon made his pitching debut Friday to power Metropolitan Conference leader Long Beach City College past host Pasadena, 4-2.

Lemon pitched three innings, as predetermined by coach Joe Hicks, and yielded one run, a homer to Pasadena's Mark Fradella in the second inning. Jim Schadel pitched six innings in relief, picking up his third win in league without a loss.

The Vikings got their runs in the fourth and sixth innings.

Glenn Berberet and Mike Liebeck were issued walks and advanced on a passed ball. Davis singled in both runners.

In the sixth inning Liebeck walked, stole second and scored on a double by

Millikan Secures Second in Walk

Old-time rivals Wilson and Poly high schools let the lead exchange hands five times before the Bruins rallied for a wild 7-6 Moore League baseball victory in the second game of a doubleheader Friday night at Blair Field.

The Jackrabbits had taken a 6-5 lead in the top of the seventh inning, then saw it vanish as Wilson staged its last-chance rally of Anderson's free passes were turned into runs.

Winning pitcher Bill Schwarz allowed only three hits and an unearned run in the fifth.

Tom Lederer ran his record to 6-0, Gary Brewsbaugh drove in four runs and Jerry Pitts homered to pace Lakewood's win over visiting Jordan.

The Lancers broke the game open with five runs in the fourth. Pitts led off the frame with his homer, then Brewsbaugh slammed a bases-loaded single moments later to score Lederer and Kim Hannaford. The fifth run came home on a pass ball.

Lakewood is now 12-1 this season, 7-1 in league action.

that beat Poly and the curfew that would have halted the game in a matter of moments.

With one out, Church Ross walked and went to second on Bill Buskirk's third hit. Cass Ditzler beat out an infield hit to load the bases and bring on pinch-hitter Rick Bachmann.

Bachmann hit a 2-0 offering by Rod Carey up the middle to score Ross, and Buskirk kept coming with the winning tally as Willie Moore over-ran the ball.

It was one of eight errors in the game. Poly's two runs in the top of the inning had come on two errors, two wild pitches and a stolen base.

The Poly setback enabled Millikan to take over second place on an easy 6-1 win over El Rancho in the opener.

In the afternoon contest, leads Lakewood remained one game ahead of the Rams by turning back Jordan, 7-1.

Poly drove Wilson starter Buskirk out of the box with a three-run uprising in the fifth on two walks and run producing hits by George Ambrow, Steve Waldroff and a ground out by Roy Lewis.

Scott Marchael, making his first league appearance of the season, bailed Buskirk out, but then needed help from Ross who came in from right field in the seventh to silence Poly and gain his sixth win.

Ten walks by losing pitcher Larry Anderson enabled Millikan to have an easy time despite collecting only four hits. Six

by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Sunday

Your birthday today! This year involves at least one event of significant personal readjustment. Plan on coming into the open with all your most important projects — otherwise they will be uncovered by people less likely to have your best interests in mind.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Circumstances change without notice. No effort to do material business should be tolerated.

Taurus (April 20-May 21): Relying on other people for details, schedules, budgets doesn't work out. Take no responsibility beyond your own, and follow a thrifty course of action.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21): Discretion in the pursuit of pleasure becomes more important than ever since others are going to extremes and asking you to do likewise.

CANCER (June 22-July 23): Unsettled moods in family and neighborhood should not be allowed to slip into you into any hasty reactions. Allow plenty of breathing room.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23): Prepare to change plans this Sunday without creating any side issues.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23): A conservative approach is the only way to enjoy this Sunday. Stay clear of transactions where property or very old objects are involved.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23): You seem completely out of touch with everybody, either on your own wavelength or right in the thick of many-sided conflict. Resolve your own affairs; be satisfied with temporary arrangements subject to revision later.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 23): Self-discipline is perhaps your most valued asset now. Remember that you will live with the results of any impulsive word or statement.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 24-Dec. 23): Anything relating to money is confusing this Sunday. Spend your time and energy on spiritual, non-material considerations. Bear witness for your true beliefs.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 24-Jan. 19): A touch of novelty finds you in an unaccustomed situation with more responsibility than you bargained for.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Travel, social arrangements are upset by wcfors beyond personal control.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Circumstances can generate usual expenses for you this Sunday. Stay clear of transactions where property or very old objects are involved.

Re-Anglicized 'Beatrice' is Charming

By DANIEL CARIAGA
Music Critic

When Julien Musafia reviewed, for these newspapers, the first performance in France of Hector Berlioz's "Beatrice et Benedict" (1862), which was given at Paris' Opera-Comique on St. Valentine's Day, 1906, he called it an "engaging little piece that fits on stage so well and holds the listener from beginning to end."

After seeing the semi-staged, re-Anglicized concert version that Zubin Mehta and the Los Angeles Philharmonic are offering three times this weekend as their penultimate events of the season, I find it impossible to disagree with that assessment.

THIS "Beatrice and Benedict" — even the spelling of the title has been reverted to Shakespeare — is charming. The realization here given is Geoffrey Dunn's "dramatized concert version," and utilizes, in addition to the singing cast, two actors who speak the principal couple's lines, two narrators (one of each sex) who keep the audience informed, and some movement, some action, some horseplay, some stage decor, and no props other than a wedding veil for Hero.

How much of this is Dunn (overdunn? underdunn?) and how much is the work of director Gordon Davidson; one cannot say. The results, in any case, are mostly delightful. Gordon's staging, the often beautiful singing of seven imported solo singers, the spoken contributions of Vanessa Redgrave and Stacy Keach as the unwilling lovers, but especially the transparent performance of the Philharmonic under Mehta's loving hand — these made the project worthwhile. Any dull moments we encountered in the proceedings I would tend to blame on Berlioz.

"BEATRICE," after all, is not so unlike "Les Troyens;" it is a single canvas (fortunately, of smaller dimensions than the earlier opera) in a single color. The music is lovely, abundantly uncharacterized, rather easy to forget, though in moments penetratingly touching. With Mehta at the helm, its features, shone.

Despite the attractive presence, and delivery, of actress Vanessa Redgrave, the performance belonged to the sung Beatrice, Yvonne Minton, who displayed a large, healthy, altogether clear mezzo-soprano, a fair amount of vocal flexibility, and abundant temperament. At the end of her major aria, in Act II, those crucial B-flats on top thinned out noticeably; otherwise, she earned the ovation that followed.

Stacy Keach spoke Benedict's lines with disarming spontaneity, and relaxed authority; two qualities his singing counterpart, tenor Stuart Burrows, who referred to his carried score shamelessly, might have emulated. Burrows sounded well enough, except for one frightening place in the men's trio when he hit a really mousy "B."

Catherine Christenson and Maureen Lehane, two unfamiliar singers on the Pavilion stage, performed impressively as Hero and Ursula. If their duet which ended Act I seemed to go on too long, the fault was not in their lovely tones, but in the composer's generous pen.

IN THE DUAL roles of Don Pedro and Somarone (Berlioz's character, not Shakespeare's), basso Spiro Malas made the most of his opportunities, especially in some entertaining horseplay between conductor Somarone and conductor Mehta. One suspects the vocal writing here is not genuinely grateful; Malas delivered it so neat.

MOVIE GUIDE

As a guide to moviegoers, this newspaper on Wednesdays and Saturdays lists capsule contents of major motion pictures playing the Long Beach area. Most classifications represent the judgment of the Code and Rating Administration of the Motion Picture Assn. of America.

Z — A tautly dramatic story of an investigator's expose of fascist elements in a supposedly democratic nation abroad. Highly suspenseful. (GP)

BOB & CAROL & TED & ALICE — A sharply satirical story of the marital hangups of two wealthy young Southland couples. Elliott Gould and Dyan Cannon are hilarious. (R)

THEY SHOOT HORSES, DON'T THEY? — A Depression period dance marathon is the setting for a saddening and hard-hitting drama starring Jane Fonda. (GP)

MIDNIGHT COWBOY — A Manhattan tragedy with Dustin Hoffman as a down-and-out Times Square con man and Jon Voight as a naive and luckless stud. (X)

TRUE GRIT — John Wayne plays a one-eyed, whiskey-guzzling western marshal who helps a 14-year-old girl track down her father's murderer. (G)

FUNNY GIRL — Oscar winner Barbra Streisand portrays Fanny Brice, the neighborhood ugly duckling who becomes a Ziegfeld Follies star. (G)

IN SEARCH OF THE CASTAWAY — A Jules Verne adventure tale of the hunt for a missing sea captain. A Walt Disney re-release. (G)

RATINGS

G — All ages admitted. General audiences.

GP — All ages admitted. Parental guidance suggested.

A beautiful hunk of car, thing says style. Wall-to-wall reclining bucket seats, mission and air-conditioning—0-60 in 16 sec.
90 mph. All this with a
able vagrant on other things.

Hi Friends . . . Ralph Williams has 1,000 cars available!

This is the ad that Ralph asked you to read on television — He bought the entire liquidated inventory of a bay area Chrysler-Plymouth dealer. He trucked it to Downey, our seven acres are swamped with over 100 truck loads of new & used cars—two complete inventories—wild savings passed on to local buyers. SAVE! SAVE! SAVE! Biggest sales Ralph Williams ever had!

ERNIE REYNOLDS... With Racket Club Model For Inverrary

Californian May Help to Reshape Florida Land

Special to the Progress Section

It's not unlike the tactics adopted by a chief of staff who has a great campaign to launch and who will need generals on each flank — and a few more at staff headquarters — who have each mastered a particular kind of strategy.

The Florida developer conceives a vision not for a building but for what amounts to a city. The strategists he uses, or doesn't use, to plan such a development depend only on the breadth of his own imagination.

Haft-Gaines, a wholly owned subsidiary of Fiqua Industries, Inc., has carried the tactic of rounding up the experts a bit further than anyone in South Florida by involving a brace of California "environment" experts in their plans for Fort Lauderdale's half-billion-dollar Inverrary.

Ernie Reynolds, a principal in the Long Beach consulting firm, Linesch and Reynolds, recently conducted an inch-by-inch exploration of the thousand acres which will be totally remade as Haft-Gaines creates a condominium environment where the exterior decorating will be as elaborate as the interior decorating.

REYNOLDS promised that Inverrary will "set new standards" for pre-planning real estate projects here and predicts that Inverrary will be "in many ways unique in the United States because of the deep concern for the ultimate environment."

There is nothing commonplace, says Reynolds, even among the great city-builders who can think of development of hundreds or thousands of acres at a time, in actually striking for new forms the way Inverrary will.

"Oh, there's always a desire to create something new," he said, "but there are fears. New concepts and new penetration are the first things

MICKEY YOON

Yoon Made Partner

Gilbert (Mickey) Yoon, landscape architect, has been named a partner of Linesch & Reynolds, environmental planners of Long Beach, it was announced by Joseph H. Linesch, president.

Yoon, the chief designer for the firm for three years, joined the firm five years ago. His new duties will consist of directing and expanding the design activities of the firm.

Responsible for much of the design on such major projects as Laguna Niguel, The Bluffs, and the Monroeville Mall in Pittsburgh, Yoon is directing the design coordination for Inverrary, a 1,000-acre residential-recreational complex in Florida, and other major projects for which Linesch & Reynolds is the environmental planning consultant.

Yoon received his B.S. degree in landscape architecture at California State Polytechnic College, Pomona.

to be aborted. There's always pressure to take the safest, most conventional route."

Nevertheless, Reynolds suggested, the big break-throughs even in sales are apt to be made by those developers who depart from convention far enough to establish something superior to the run of the market. And his firm has been highly successful while "counseling innovation."

THE BASIC innovation at Inverrary is to consider the whole thousand acres fair game for change.

Florida's a bit short on waterfalls and rushing water, on hills and slopes, on rocky jettings and a sudden slant of dappled greenery — so Haft-Gaines is building all this.

And it is building it non-symmetrically. This wholesale landscaping will imitate nature rather than formal gardens, giving Inverrary an "accidental look" which has actually been as completely planned as the grounds of a French palace.

"The word project is wrong," says Reynolds firmly. "Inverrary isn't a project, it's a micro-community. It's an environment within which several types of projects occur."

With 10,000 apartment units and townhouses planned — some of these significantly larger than Florida's usual condominium units — Inverrary will have a good-sized population but wonderfully wide acreage in which to give that population freedom and fun and a handsome setting.

"It takes the large acreage to provide the mixing of pleasures which community ideally means," said Reynolds. America, he suggested, has seen much too much of neighborhoods created in straight lines like squads standing at attention.

Wm. Lyon Developments Offer Week Night Hours

Homebuyers can now select their new home any week night til 9 p.m. at Orange County developments of International builder William Lyon.

All six of his communities located in Huntington Beach and Fullerton, are introducing new "easy shopping" hours with sales offices open from 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. weekdays, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturdays, and on Sundays from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.

"Our new hours will allow families to enjoy their weekend leisure time activities," states David Langlois, area manager for Lyon's Orange County operation.

"There are other obvious advantages, too," he added. "The models will be less crowded and the sales hosts will be able to spend more time answering any questions, driving visitors through the community and demonstrating the features of individual homes."

WM. LYON DEVELOPMENT COMPANY now offers immediate and near future occupancy in communities from the hills of Fullerton to beach side in Huntington Beach. Each is designed and priced to appeal to different segments of the new home market, with VA, FHA and conventional financing available to all Huntington Beach developments.

For the young junior executive family, California Classics, near Meadowlark Golf Club at 5331 Brandy Drive in Huntington Beach, are priced from $24,990 and you can move in today.

These "House & Home" Magazine award-winning homes have become California's best-selling "name brand" series.

The one and two-story plans offer two to five bedrooms and include the all-glass "Terrace Kitchen" filled with built-in appliances.

Included in the purchase price are fireplace, carpeting (living room, hall, master bedroom), sloped ceilings, drapes (except kitchen, bath), rear lot line fencing and front yard landscaping (sprinklers).

ALSO READY FOR IMMEDIATE occupancy in Huntington Shores, in one of Huntington Beach's finest executive areas.

Designed for "families-on-the-grow," these surprisingly priced homes include a special four-bedroom, two-bath plan priced at $27,400 and other three and four-bedroom models from just $26,490.

Formal Living Room Popular Bauer Homes-Cerritos Feature

Formal living rooms, which are provided in all plans at Bauer Homes in Cerritos, are a favorite with women homeshoppers, reports Warren Bauer, president of Bauer Development Co.

"In too many homes, the normal traffic plan is right through the center of the living room," Bauer observed.

"This may be convenient sometimes, but the value of such convenience rapidly disappears when the youngsters lead a cowboy and Indians charge through the room while you're trying to entertain."

"Our living rooms are not shut off from the rest of the house, but they do not lead to another room. So, they cannot be used as hallways and are great for couples who like to entertain," he said.

"ANOTHER great entertaining feature is that all of our Family Center Kitchens are near the living rooms, making the entire end of the house a great place to give a party."

Bauer Homes offer five different plans with two to four bedrooms. They come in as many as five different exterior stylings.

Most plans include fireplaces with log lighters and carpeting in the living room, hall, and master bedrooms. Some models have self-cleaning ovens and luminous ceilings in the bathrooms.

All have such quality features as underground utilities, concrete drive ways, copper plumbing, hardwood kitchen cabinets with furniture finishes, and ceramic tile countertops.

AMONG THE much-wanted architectural features are covered and sheltered entries, custom exterior detailing with lavish use of wood, vaulted ceiling living rooms,

Douglas Announces Staff Realignment; Five Affected

Staff realignments and assignments involving five key executives of the Douglas Aircraft Company division of the McDonnell Douglas Corporation have been announced by Douglas President Jackson McGowen.

Purpose of the changes, McGowen said, is to strengthen and broaden functions of the company's administration subdivision by placing it directly under the president's office.

In the new alignment, Edward Curtis, formerly vice president-contracts and administration, is named vice president-contracts and pricing.

This, McGowen said, frees him from details of the administration function and enables him to devote more attention to the expanding area of new military and commercial business.

Curtis is a resident of Pacific Palisades.

JOSEPH S. Dunning, formerly director of engineering operations control, is appointed director of administration.

He will report directly to the president. Dunning, who lives in Los Angeles, has a B.S. degree in aeronautical engineering from Massachusetts Institute of Technology and a master of science degree in aeronautical engineering from Stanford University.

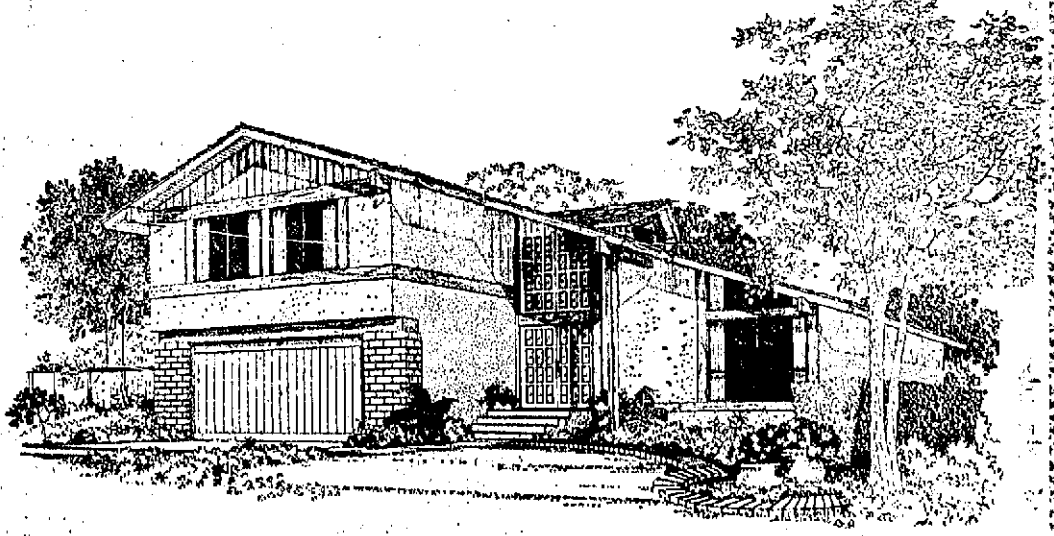

A veteran of more than 28 years in technical and administrative assignments at Douglas, Dunning will be directly responsible for personnel management systems, security and plant protection, administrative services, employee safety and manpower resources development.

HE SUCCEEDS Roy J. Anderson, who is appointed assistant to Executive Vice President Wellwood E. Beall.

Anderson, a graduate of the University of Southern California has been with the company for 30 years. (Continued on Page 2)

Park Huntington Delight

HELMSMAN (ABOVE) ONE OF five beautifully decorated models, is open this weekend for public viewing at S&S Construction Company's 567-lot development, Park Huntington, in Huntington Beach. This two-story home has four bedrooms and 2½ baths. Master bedroom suite offers own bath, walk-in closet, private retreat. Optional wet bar in family room is indicative of entertaining qualities of this home. Park Huntington homes, priced from $29,900, can be seen by taking San Diego Freeway to Brookhurst, thence south to site.

Watson Defends Homeowner from Added Tax Burden

By ROBERT BECKMAN
Business-Real Estate Editor

This state's homeowners and other property taxpayers cannot bear the brunt of the state's welfare programs much longer, says Philip E. Watson, Los Angeles county assessor.

Neither, he added, can these people continue to carry the full burden of the state's education costs.

Watson, speaking to members of the Southern California Mortgage Bankers Association in Los Angeles, made it clear new constitutional amendments are needed to shift welfare and education costs to revenues available "from other sources."

Under his major amendment suggestion, Watson would see that all new statewide plans, programs, services and benefits which the legislature enacts into law would have to include provisions for funding "from sources other than property taxes."

Watson further recommends the state set property tax ceilings for all taxing agencies, such as: one half of one per cent for a county; one half of one per cent for a city; and an aggregate tax of one quarter of one per cent for all intra-county special districts.

Philip Gilligan, MBA president, agreed with Watson.

Past efforts on the part of the legislature have been largely ineffective in drafting a fair, realistic and workable tax system. When government continually turns to the property tax as a catch-all source of needed dollars, the public is bound to say "no."

MOBILEHOMES ON RISE

The Nixon administration's recent recognition of mobilehomes as the answer to housing problems will break down antiquated zoning restrictions and catapult park development, predicts Richard J. Martens, western manager of Boise Cascade Building Co.'s Mobilehome Communities division.

The Nixon administration's recent recognition of mobilehomes as the answer to housing problems will break down antiquated zoning restrictions and catapult park development, predicts Richard J. Martens, western manager of Boise Cascade Building Co.'s Mobilehome Communities division.

The administration sees approximately 50 per cent of the nation's residents turning to mobilehomes as a means of shelter because they cannot afford a conventionally built house which costs $27,000 — the median price of a home on today's market, Martens said.

"The price of a conventional house has certainly gone beyond what most Americans can afford. In contrast, the sales price in California of a mobilehome with carpeting, drapes and built-in kitchen appliances is between $7,000 and $12,000, Martens said.

The most significant statement in the administration's announcement, Martens added, is that HUD (Department of Housing and Urban Development) will, for the first time, include mobilehome starts as part of the nation's housing goal.

"The government has set this goal at 2.6 million housing units per year. The projection for mobilehomes shipped to dealers by 1975 is one million mobilehomes, or approximately one out of two single family homes produced, and this figure will certainly go a long way toward reaching the government's goal," he said.

RTD TESTING MUFFLER

The development of a new catalytic bus muffler, which could make a substantial contribution to cleaner air in cities throughout the nation, will be the goal of a testing program for which Southern California Rapid Transit District is seeking federal funds.

Directors of the RTD have authorized the filing of an application with the Urban Mass Transportation Administration (UMTA) seeking a grant for the study, which would be undertaken in conjunction with the Power Systems Divisions of North American Rockwell Corporation.

The current magnitude of the air pollution problem in areas with large motor vehicle registrations, such as Los Angeles, demands action now," said Samuel B. Nelson, RTD general manager.

"Every potential means of reducing objectionable emissions must be developed, tested and evaluated without delay," Nelson added.

In a letter to Carlos C. Villarreal, UMTA administrator, Nelson said that should the project prove successful, "a substantial reduction in smoke, odors and noise, along with other emissions, from the transit type diesel engine can be expected."

The Southern California Rapid Transit District operates some 1,500 buses along 2,500 miles of route in Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties.

THE BUILDING SCENE

Catching up with the building scene:
WESTMINSTER . . . Construction is under way on two large residential projects. One is south of Brookhurst, just past McFadden. Called Westhaven, the project will include 800 homes with prices beginning at $31,995. The other project, to be completed in mid-1970, is a 216-unit, $2.8 million apartment complex on Garden Grove Boulevard near the San Diego Freeway.

FOUNTAIN VALLEY . . . Ground has been broken at the southwest corner of Euclid Street and Talbert Avenue for a $4.25 million industrial park, consisting of 19 buildings on the 28.5-acre site. First structures are scheduled for completion in June.

CERRITOS . . . The city council has approved four residential tract maps covering 98 acres of land and calling for construction of 519 homes to be valued at more than $14 million.

BELLFLOWER . . . Walker & Lee, Inc., real estate firm, has opened its newest office at 9944 E. Flower. Employees in 27 resale offices of the firm number 600.

LONG BEACH . . . Ground has been broken for the $2.8 million Signal Hill Industrial Center East on a 12.9-acre site at Hill Street and Redondo Avenue. The industrial park will include two large buildings for multiple tenancy and 11 others for individual tenancy. Completion is expected in June.

WESTMINSTER . . . Ninety-three acres have been purchased at Bolsa, Golden West and the San Diego Freeway from Pacific Goldfish Farm for a $2.8 million shopping center.

HUNTINGTON BEACH . . . A 256-unit apartment complex is under construction at the southeast corner of Warner and Edwards avenues. Value of the project is estimated at more than $3 million.

CERRITOS . . . Work has been started on the $2 million, 250-bed Cerritos Town House. The mental hospital, located near Studebaker Road and Alondra Boulevard, is scheduled for completion in August.

LONG BEACH . . . The building department has issued a permit for cut-and-fill operations for a 525-unit luxury apartment development in the area bounded by

Marvin E. Saunders Jr. has been named vice president-general manager of

Saunders was vice president and general manager of American Furniture of El Paso, Texas, previous to the Los Angeles area appointment.

Alan Wilson has been promoted to general merchandise manager of Gold's nine-store organization.

Wilson, formerly furniture merchandise manager has been with Gold's for nine years, coming from Sachs in New York to assume the duties of upholstery buyer.

PSL Has Subsidiary Operating

Publication Services Limited, Newport Beach, has formed Hochman & Associates Advertising, a wholly owned subsidiary, to provide full advertising agency services for its clients.

Heading the new subsidiary are Shayel Hochman as president and Sandy Hochman as vice president.

Hochman is also president of the parent Publication Services Limited shop which offers creative and production services.

Hochman offices are located at 4500 Campus Drive, Suite 600, Newport Beach.

IN THE Orange County Advertising Club's Awards 70, PSL totaled 15 awards as well as the sweepstakes trophy.

The TIMA International Show brought three first and two second places, and from the Los Angeles Art Director's Show, a certificate of merit.

Baby News Store Open for Business

A new arrival for the Long Beach business and retail community was welcomed this week: a Baby News Children's department store. It is the chain's 32nd store.

Announcement of the opening of the 4,000-square-foot store at 6261 E. Spring St., was made by Frank DiDonna, owner.

Baby News stores is the largest group of independent children's department stores in the United States offering complete lines of clothing, furniture, educational toys, accessories, service and safety equipment for children from birth to eight years.

The stores comprise a group of independent merchants who have come together for collective purchasing power, centralized inventory control, and standardization of services and operations.

The Baby News group, which did over $7 million volume in 1969, also provides intensified training for new members.

Colorado Street, Manila Avenue and Pacific Coast Highway.

HUNTINGTON BEACH . . . First project of Rusco Industries' $10.5 million contract to furnish steel shell materials for 10 apartment buildings in Southern California will be a 256-unit apartment building at Warner Avenue at Edwards Street. The first model home utilizing the new steel shell system is in Hacienda Heights at 14614 E. Palm Avenue.

CERRITOS . . . Glenaire/Cerritos, 250-home community near 122nd Street and Carmelita Avenue, opened four models this month. Prices start at $34,585.

LONG BEACH . . . Ground has been broken for the second section of the theater arts complex at California State College at Long Beach. Completion is expected next year.

Business Week Index

Auto Output, Sales in New Slump

After three weeks of gains on the chart, this week's Index dipped 0.1 per cent.

Auto output slumped 15.3 per cent in the current week. Car sales were off again. General Motors announced plans to partially close seven of its 23 plants this month. Ford and Chrysler on the other hand stepped up production of their high-selling small cars.

Steel production inched 0.2 per cent below the week-ago level. Some steel makers fear a mushrooming inventory, and slowdown in production resulting from a labor dispute with Chicago-Pittsburgh owner-operated trucks, responsible for transporting 60 to 70 per cent of the country's steel output.

Crude oil refinery runs were off 0.5 per cent — a general slowdown in oil demand is predicted for 1970. Refinery runs rank 3.8 per cent above the year-ago level. Electric power output slipped 1.2 per cent below last week.

Miscellaneous carloadings rose 0.2 per cent, all other carloadings increased 3.7 per cent; intercity truck tonnage fell 1.7 per cent, reflecting work stoppages due to wildcat, truckers strikes.

Paperboard production went up 2.1 per cent.

Maverick's national sales picture was boosted by the car's individual performances of Ford Division's 35 district sales offices, including Los Angeles. Through March 31, Maverick sales in the district, which includes 135 dealerships totaled 25,649 units.

Despite its late introduction, Maverick helped bring Ford Division's total penetration in the district to 19.7 per cent in calendar year 1969 — up 2.0 per cent from the previous year.

"Maverick gave our dealers a tremendous spring tonic when it was introduced last April and it's helped to carry us over some rough spots ever since," said Ford Division's Los Angeles district sales manager, L. S. Grey.

"The effect of that sales shot has improved Ford's overall strength in the district and the nation."

MAVERICK BOLTED ONTO the automotive scene with all the eye-catching appeal of a mini-skirted Park Avenue model. The word 'bolted' is not chosen lightly. Within its first three-and-a-half months on the market, Maverick had romped to more than 100,000 sales nationally to give it the most successful introductory period of any car in history.

"Maverick has followed in the Mustang-Falcon tradition — from the excitement it created to the sales it stimulated," stated John Naughton, Ford Motor Company vice president and Ford Division general manager.

"It gives Ford Division a one-two-three punch with the three most successful cars ever introduced."

"The car has been everything we'd hoped it would be, and more — a terrific conquest car, an innovative pacesetter and an exciting showroom draw. What's more important, Maverick has been exactly the right kind of car to meet today's exacting market demands," Mr. Naughton said.

THE PROOF IS IN FORD Division's increased national market share — from 19.4 per cent in the April 20-March 31 period of 1968-69 to 20.6 per cent in the same period since Maverick introduction.

The average Maverick buyer, according to continuing Ford Division surveys, is 34 years old and has a median income of about $11,000. About a third have some college education and more than 40 per cent hold professional, technical or management positions. Two-thirds of the Maverick buyers are male and the same proportion is married.

The trade-in story on Maverick has remained relatively constant since its introduction. About 55 per cent of all Mavericks have been sold with no trade-in involved.

SRA'S NEW OFFICE

Mrs. Maralynn Lesser, executive secretary, and Leon Hyter, president of Orange County Chapter, Society of Real Estate Appraisers, chat in newly opened chapter office at 1450 E. 17th St., Santa Ana. Office hours: 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., Monday through Friday.

SME Schedules 20th Anniversary Dance

The Long Beach Chapter, Society of Manufacturing Engineers, will celebrate its 20th anniversary with a dinner-dance Friday, April 24, at the Lake-wood Country Club.

In 1950, when the local chapter was chartered, the society name was the American Society of Tool Engineers (ASTE).

The name was expanded to include the Manufacturing Engineer in 1959 (ATME). This year, this International Engineering Society of over 45,000 members took the name of Society of Manufacturing Engineers (SME).

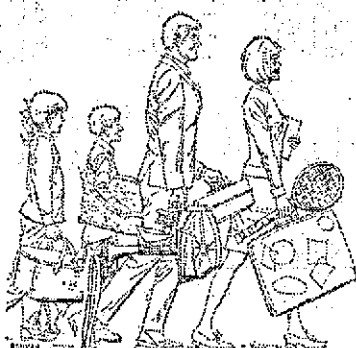

MEMBERS, charter members, past members and friends are invited to renew friendships.

William L. Owen, chapter chairman, said the planning has been aided by Past Chairmen John Stansbury, Frank Wallace, Larry Pomerantz, Jim Medford, Chuck Ward, Lyman Allen, Owen McDougal, Blake Boudway, Phil Bender, Jim Buttrey, Tony Holley, Paul Decker and Joe South.

Tickets may be obtained by contacting First Vice Chairman Ken Armstrong or Second Vice Chairman Al Siggson.

PRESLEY DEVELOPMENT COMPANY COMMUNITIES

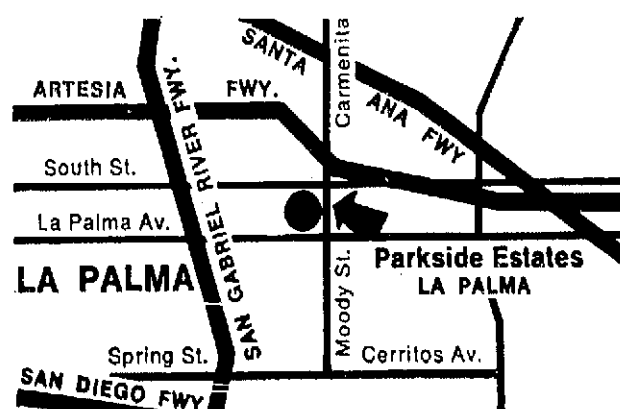

Fountain Valley

Here, next door, is spectacular Mile Square Park, Orange County's foremost recreational complex. It includes a beautiful 18-hole golf course, picnic areas and a multitude of sports oriented facilities. A historic Village, Children's Zoo and a three-acre fishing lake are planned in the next phase of development.

La Palma

A community park is located adjacent to Parkside Estates, and there is a proposed 80-acre County Regional Park less than a mile away. This remarkable new playground will have a lake, too, as well as a huge swimming pool and a full complement of facilities for little league games, other games and sports. Here is a close-in community that deserves another look. City development plans and projections are simply spectacular ... and they're happening NOW!

Walker & Lee Sales Set Record

Total home sales by Walker & Lee, Inc., were up 22.7 per cent during the first two months of 1970, it was reported this week by Frank R. Hart, president of the Anaheim-based residential realty firm.

Sales for the two months totaled 1,011 homes for a total volume of $27.5 million, as compared to last year's figures of 898 homes and $24.5 million for the same period.

Interpreting the increase, Hart said:

"There can be no question about the fact that home sales generally are slow. The big reason for our increase is that we are getting a much larger portion of the market. We are the largest in the field and when things get tough, the normal tendency is to turn to the leaders."

HART noted three other trends in the figures.

The big increase is in resale homes, where our total for the two months went up 99 homes, from 625 last year to 725 this year. Unquestionably, the reason for this is that — with costs of new homes constantly rising — older homes become a more attractive buy.

"Conversely, we've noted another trend. The average sales price on new homes actually has dropped $1,500. There are two reasons for this.

"One, our expansion has taken us to outlying areas, where prices are lower. Two, builders are simply constructing smaller homes in an effort to market a product that more people can afford."

HART said the average new home has dropped from $31,050 to $30,300. Meanwhile, the average older home has risen an almost identical amount, from $26,450 to $27,950.

"A third trend also seems to be evident," Hart said. "And that is that the market is rather erratic. Last year, sales were at a fairly steady pace with 126 new homes sold in January and 147 in February. Resale home sales were at 318 the first month and 307 the second. This year, we sold 98 new homes in January but the pace nearly doubled in February with 189 sales. It was the other way around in used home sales, with 396 in January and 328 in February."

Looking to the future, Hart concluded that, at the present pace of 505.5 home sales per month, the company's sales for 1970 would total 6,066, or nearly 1,100 homes over last year's all-time company record of 4,987 homes.

Phelps to Address Realtors

Lee W. Phelps, vice president-marketing division, Dunn Properties Corporation, will address members of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors at their breakfast meeting at 7:15 a.m. Tuesday at the Lakewood Country Club.

Program chairman Orville Artz said Phelps' topic will be "The Dunn Properties Program." Phelps is remembered for his years in professional football.

United Savings to Open Orange Office

Orange County's most complete financial community will come a step closer to reality this month when United Savings and Loan Association makes its first entry into the county marketplace.

The company will open an office in the Financial Centre of The City, the $200-million "urban complex of the future" under construction in Orange.

The firm is one of more than a dozen financial institutions and brokerage firms that have already announced intentions to make the Financial Centre their home.

United Savings' 5,200-square-foot office will be the association's 14th in Southern California. The firm, founded in 1930, now has total assets of $422 million.

REGIONAL Vice President Roger Cottrell will head a staff of savings specialists in the modern new Orange County facility.

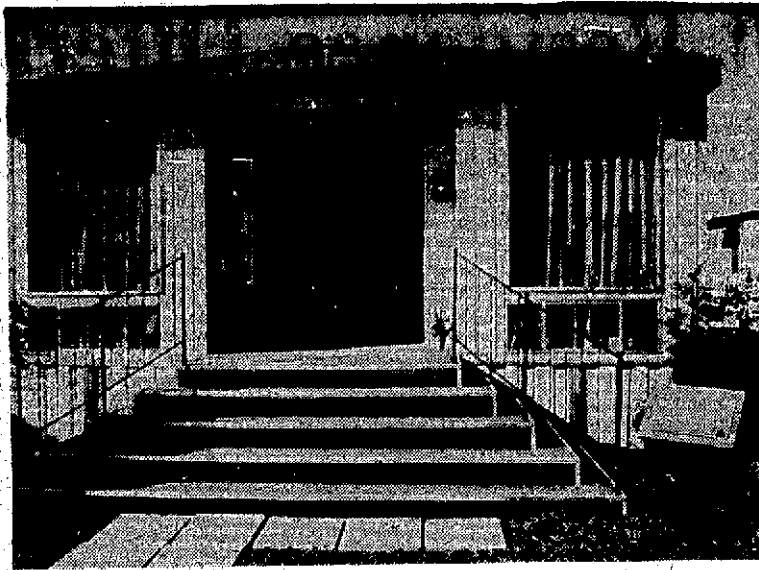

"United Savings' entry into the Orange County market is very important to the long range growth of our association," said Cottrell. "And we're naturally enthusiastic about the many advantages The City offers."

The firm's debut Orange County office offers such special customer features as a free large safe deposit box for customers maintaining a $1,000 savings account and a 1,000 square-foot community meeting room that will be available without charge to qualified groups.

C. W. Smith to Address REC Meet

Charles W. Smith of the Long Beach Safety Council, will speak to members of the North Long Beach Real Estate Club at their meeting Thursday at the Park Pantry.

Program chairman Jim McElroy said Smith's topic will be "Be Safe—Be Seen."

American Mobilehome Co. to Open L.B. Park on May 1

Opening dates for four $1 million mobilehome parks in the greater Los Angeles area, including Long Beach, have been set by American Mobilehome Company.

Philip Walsh, Southern California regional manager for AMC, announced that on May 1 the 25-acre, 163-space Friendly Village of Long Beach, 5450 Paramount Blvd., will officially open, to be followed by the June 1 opening of the Friendly Village of West Covina, with 24 acres and 157 mobilehome spaces.

The Friendly Villages of La Habra, at Idaho and Lambert Streets, with 246

mobilehome spaces, and Lancaster, at East 15th and Avenue I, with 200 spaces, will both open on July 1.

THE AMERICAN Mobilehome Company, 1900 Avenue of the Stars, Century City, which is building and operating mobilehome parks in 23 states, opened the Friendly Village of Simi, 195 Tierra Rejada Road, Ventura County, last month, and has four other Friendly Villages in operation in Northern California.

Pre-opening sales are now going on at Long Beach and West Covina villages, and pre-construction sales will soon begin at villages in La Habra and Lancaster.

When the villages officially open, each will have a $200,000 country-club and recreation center for the exclusive use of village residents and their guests. The clubhouses will contain meeting rooms, lounges, card rooms and billiards rooms, Walsh said.

LAUNDRY and car-washing facilities are on the premises. All utilities are underground, and residents have $200,000 worth of recreational facilities at their disposal.

ANDERSON (L), SANTORO ... 171 New Members For Chamber

Santoro Receives L.B. Chamber Selcer Award

Victor J. Santoro, project coordinator for General Telephone Program Centers, this week received the David Selcer Memorial Award as top producer for a Long Beach Chamber of Commerce membership drive that netted $16,500 and 171 new members for the community-wide organization.

Santoro was honored for his individual production of $2,500 with a pen-and-pencil desk set in memory of David Selcer, a leading membership producer who served as Long Beach postmaster for seven years until his death in 1969. Chamber President Roy Anderson presented the award.

THE membership drive, entitled "Chamber Derby," involved the efforts of 140 volunteer businessmen and women under the direction of Long Beach attorney Louise M. DuVall, immediate past chairman of the Chamber membership committee.

DIDN'T 'GO WEST'
NEW YORK (UPI) — The companies that manufactured U. S. women's apparel a century ago paid little attention to Horace Greeley's advice to "Go west, young man," and their fiercely competitive successors still haven't done so, either, to any great extent.

Meinhard - Commercial Corporation, a C.I.T. Financial Corporation subsidiary providing funds to the apparel industry, notes that a recent industry study shows that two out of three women's coats, suits, dresses and lingerie items still are made by firms here.

Casa Dominguez Near New Park

The city of Carson is placing the final touches on the fully landscaped, eight-acre Del Amo Park, which includes two baseball diamonds, a basketball court, gym apparatus, and picnic areas.

The park is located on Del Amo Boulevard near Avalon Boulevard, adjacent to Leadership Homes' Casa Dominguez, new master planned community with more than 6,000 residents.

"Carson's Parks and Recreation Department will provide night lighting and a staff at the Del Amo Park to cover a full program of comprehensive, competitive athletics and teen activities," stated Howard Homan, Director of Parks and Recreation for the city of Carson.

A survey of local residents revealed the desire for more park areas, indicating that a strong program of athletic activities is essential in developing children's social and physical abilities."

THE PARK property

CASA DOMINGUEZ... Nice Playground

was donated to the city by the Maccos Corporation, developers of Leadership Homes' Casa Dominguez. Maccos Corporation is the real estate development subsidiary of Great Southwest Corporation, national land and environment developer.

"We have been working on a 50-50 basis with the County of Los Angeles on a $1 million project to beautify the parkways along Del Amo Blvd.," said Philip Yasskin, leadership Homes director of sales.

"The new park site and street landscaping will be an attractive feature for Casa Dominguez, which will add 1,200 new residents this year."

The community is central to other recreation developments in Carson. Two other parks are being completed to the west and south of the Casa Dominguez project and are expected to open before the end of the year. Within a mile of the site is the 35-acre Victoria Park, which includes an 18-hole golf course, $500,000 recreation center and two Olympic size swimming pools.

"THE IDEAL location of Casa Dominguez provides maximum homeowner convenience for freeways, shopping centers, schools, and recreation, and has been a factor in our selling 8 homes since January," stated Al McKool, sales manager at Casa Dominguez.

"We take great pride in our continuing contributions in the public interest."

Casa Dominguez offers two to five-bedroom homes from $23,990. There are nine floor plans to choose from, with Spanish, ranch, and contemporary exteriors available. Eight fully decorated models with interiors by Carole Eichen and landscaping by Plaza Landscape are on display at the site.

To reach Casa Dominguez, take the San Diego Freeway to Avalon Boulevard and proceed east to Del Amo Boulevard and the new community.

No Charge for Parking Heralded at Tramway

"Increased advertising and promotional efforts are contributing to new high records for the Palm Springs Aerial Tramway," according to Leland M. Kaiser, finance committee chairman of the Mt. San Jacinto Winter Park Authority.

"As a matter of fact," he reported, "despite a couple of windy days, Monday thru Friday of the past week established records for a five-consecutive-day period."

"Revenue was up 16 per cent over comparative five days last year and up 21 per cent over 1968."

During Monday thru Friday, almost 9,000 riders took the roundtrip between the Valley Station in Chino Canyon and the Mountain Station.

"Of great interest to children and parents are the newly developed animal park and petting zoo at the Valley Station," Kaiser said. "The greatly improved dining facilities and other concessions at both Mountain and Valley stations are doing a record business."

"Complete elimination of the parking charge has proved highly popular, as has the open busses which shuttle visitors between the numerous parking areas and the Valley Station."

SALES EXECUTIVE DECLARES

'Modern Man—a Walking Billboard'

If anyone were to suggest to the average man that he walk down the street carrying a sign advertising a certain product, and do this without recompense, chances are the response would be indignant refusal.

Yet, says Leonard G. Corbosi, of Seabury and Company, modern Americans are "walking billboards," as a result of "advertising specialties" — items bearing a commercial message which are worn, carried or used daily by persons in all walks of life.

Corbosi admits at least partial responsibility for this trend. As vice president and director of national sales for Seabury, a subsidiary of "42" Products, he has a record of success in the burgeoning advertising specialties field.

For many years a somewhat overlooked aspect of the advertising function, advertising specialties have reached the point of respected recognition both within the advertising industry as well as in the business world.

"THE Advertising Specialty Institute reports that $2.80 was budgeted during 1969 for advertising for every man, woman and child in the United States," Corbosi points out, "and the direction of the future indicates that the $560,000,000 annual volume industry will be taking an even greater share of the advertising dollar."

People seem not to mind being used as advertising media if the particular item or items involved serves a useful purpose. As an example, Corbosi cites the license plate holders supplied by most new car dealers.

"These are made to be attractive, and, of course, they are functional, so the car becomes a rolling signboard for the dealer," he says, "although the driver is often unaware of it."

JUST AS millions of Americans unknowingly are advertising auto dealers as they go through their daily lives, so do they also call attention to various other corporations and products in their normal activities.

Chances are the ball point pen they carry includes a message from a financial institution... or a mortuary... or a political candidate.

Similarly their jewelry — tie clasps, cuff links, cigarette lighters and key chains — might bear the name, logo or product of a major corporation.

"Actually the simple process of putting a label in a suit, a brand name on a watch or a company name on a pack of matches is essentially a form of advertising," says Corbosi. "If the individual likes monogrammed shirts or handkerchiefs, he's really advertising himself."

Seabury and Company, founded by Eric Seabury in 1945, is one of the largest volume advertising specialties houses on the West Coast, as well as one of the oldest.

L.B. Automation Institute in Name Change; Expands

The Automation Institute of Long Beach has changed its name to Control Data Institute and has expanded its computer education curriculum by plugging into a nationwide network of large and super-scale control data computers.

The name change and installation of computer communication equipment is part of a new licensing agreement that was announced by William C. Norris, president and chairman of the board of Control Data Corporation, and James E. McCormick, director of the Automation Institute of Long Beach.

UNDER the new license agreement, Automation Institute of America provides independent businessmen-owners of computer training schools throughout the country with curriculum materials and other instructional aids for the teaching of computer programming and other data processing operations.

AIA is the franchising subsidiary of Control Data Corporation. The new agreement also provides for the installation of a remote terminal that allows the CDI students to communicate with the Cybernet System, a network of large scale and super-scale Control Data computer systems.

"THE remote terminal allows our Long Beach students to process their problem-solving programs on the world's largest single source of commercially available computer power, the Cybernet System, and they can do it without leaving our classrooms," McCormick added.

The Institute in Long Beach was opened in May 1967 and has since been accredited by the Accrediting Commission of the National Association of Trade and Technical Schools (NATS), Washington, D.C. The Long Beach facility has graduated 325 computer professionals and has a current enrollment of 150. Graduates have become programmers and operators in key industries throughout the area.

'Eastern-Size' Lots Are Found at Villa Park

Executives being transferred to Orange County from out of state who are accustomed to large, "Eastern-size" lots are among the principal homebuyers in Villa Park, secluded countryside estate community in the northeast section of the county, according to a month-long survey taken by five Villa Park developers.

"Villa Park's half-acre lots, quiet rural atmosphere and prestige property values are attracting the majority of our homebuyers," said Norman Burnham of Southpoint.

In addition, Villa Park's location makes it unique among all other cities in Orange County. "It is an enclave," said Ed Smyth of La Veta Woods. "It's an isolated area completely surrounded by hills and other communities, yet within three minutes you can reach the Orange County freeway system."

TO DEVELOP further interest in Villa Park and an esprit de corps, five independent developers have organized a five-mile tour of their model home complexes. Featuring 18 model homes, the Countryside Estate Tour begins two blocks east of the Katella off-ramp of the Newport Freeway at Katella and Wanda.

It then proceeds through the intersection and east on Villa Park Road, an extension of Katella.

Villa Park homes on the tour, which range in price from $35,000 to $75,000, include Burnham's Southpoint, G. L. Lewis' Colony Ridge and Colony Oaks, Smyth's La Veta Woods, Ed Nahigan and Jim Butler's Patrician Villa Park and Jerry Weinberg's Buena Vista Estates.

Villa Park homes are open daily from 10 a.m. for public inspection. For directional assistance, model home tour signs have been posted and maps are available at each model complex.

FURNISHED, DECORATED MODEL ... At El Ray Park

'Del Amo' Model Ready at El Ray Park, Cerritos

The special introductory plan for a new home model, the "Del Amo," at El Ray Park, in Cerritos, is still in effect, it was announced by John Heil, Eastern Regional official, Boise Cascade Building Company.

"The 'Del Amo' has proved so popular with prospective buyers, that we've extended the time on the introductory offer," Heil said.

Priced at a low of $29,950, the spacious new model contains 1,500 square feet of living area, with floor plans including a luxurious master bedroom suite, with bath and dressing room, an oversize family room and striking one, two and split-level stylings.

OTHER El Ray Park homes feature three and four bedrooms, two and three baths, Balanced Power kitchens, built-ins and patio kitchens, with pass-through counters and sliding windows.

In one and two-story stylings, prices range from $29,950 to $37,950 and are available on convenient financing plans, including "contract of sale."

In addition, an optional "package plan" is available to prospective buyers, Heil said. This plan offers fencing, landscaping and a sprinkler system in front, draperies in the living room and master bedroom suits and sliding glass doors.

El Ray Park may be reached from the Santa

Ana or San Diego Freeways, to the San Gabriel Freeway (605) continuing on 605 to the South Street off-ramp and west on

Parkside Selling Last 10 Homes

Model homes and the final 10 homes at Parkside Homes in Orange County's Green Valley will go on sale this weekend with flexible terms and deep cut prices promised by the lender's agents.

The homes are adjacent to private park, new schools, club house and pools and within walking distance to the new Mile Square park and golf course in Fountain Valley.

Three, four and five-bedroom two-story plans are included in the liquidation set for this Sunday. The site is just South of Warner Avenue, between Euclid and Brookhurst in the private Green Valley community.

Kay Jewelers Expands

H. D. Trattner, president of Kay Jewelers of California, has announced the opening of a new store in Oxnard, located in The Esplanade, Ventura County's first completely enclosed shopping center.

This is Kay Jewelers 30th California store. The first was opened in Oakland in 1928.

Trattner said that Kay Jewelers has present plans for opening seven additional stores in California within the next two years.

ELEGANCE IN VILLA PARK ... Found At La Veta Woods

Le Gran Corp. Earnings Up; New Store Planned in L.B.

Le Gran Corporation, Long Beach, which operates jewelry concessions at discount department stores in California and Hawaii, had record sales and earnings during 1969, according to David Grand, president.

Sales for the period amounted to $13,129,892, compared to $11,409,266 for the year ended Dec. 31, 1968 — a gain of 15 per cent.

Net earnings amounted to $504,579, or 87c per share, as against $464,832, and 84c per share in 1968. The 1969 per share earnings were based on 580,000 average shares outstanding, as against 553,333 average shares outstanding in 1968.

GRAND noted that sales in the company's traditionally stronger fourth quarter amounted to $5,688,528, compared to $4,833,147 in the similar 1968 quarter.

He reported that the record results in 1969 were accomplished in spite of the delayed opening late last year of three of the company's Gemco-type jewelry departments in California due to a building industry strike, (2) a general softening in Christmas retail sales throughout the nation, (3) extraordinary but necessary "tooling-up" expenses for training management personnel for future department locations, and (4) the further staffing and implementation of the company's new and expanded warehouse and main office facilities in Long Beach.

DURING 1969, Le Gran added retail concessions at three new Gemco discount department stores in Southern California — Cerritos, Gardena and Lancaster — two new USE stores in Northern California — South San Francisco and Millbrae — and the new Holiday Mart in Pearl City, Hawaii.

This brought the total number of jewelry concessions to 30 at Dec. 31, 1969, compared to 24 at Dec. 31, 1968.

L.B. Firm Completes Contract

Tri-Cor, Inc., of Long Beach, has completed construction of 12 giant aircraft storage hangars at Van Nuys Airport for Beechcraft West.

The standard Pascoe Steel Corp. structures, which will house executive-type privately owned twin engine aircraft, are the largest T-configuration hangars available on the market today.

The hangars are equipped with fluorescent lighting inside, and mercury vapor floods on the exterior for night maneuvering of aircraft as well as personnel. The buildings are finished in colonial yellow with white roofs to blend with the existing company facilities.

Beechcraft West (formerly Norm Larson Beechcraft) is a major fixed base operator at Van Nuys Airport. A sales office building, service office and customer service lobby have been built for the firm to date, in addition to the new hangar complex.

Grand announced that "1970 shapes up as our greatest expansion year ever. We are pleased to report that we will be included in Gemco's national expansion program which gets under way this year and includes four discount department stores to be opened in the Washington, D.C. area by late summer and fall, and one in Phoenix, Arizona, by summer." He also reported that Gemco is planning future store openings at Riverside, Long Beach, and South San Francisco locations in California.

RANCHO CAPISTRANO Land of the Dons

UNSPOILED, SECLUDED
2½ to 3 acre rancho sites amid the great oaks of Cleveland National Forest

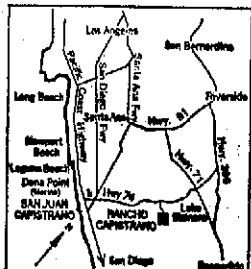

Deep in the great oak region of the Cleveland National Forest lies a 300-acre island of rolling hills, warm valleys and grassy glades known as Rancho Capistrano. Vast reaches of the National Forest recreation area stretch in every direction, a Government-owned buffer against population and commercial encroachment.

Rancho Capistrano will belong to just 133 owners, in fee simple. Each of the 2½ to 3 acre sites is cleared and accessible to utilities and graded road. Ancient Spanish oaks still stand on most of the sites. This private preserve, once sold, can never be duplicated.

At Rancho Capistrano you'll enjoy assured seclusion for an infinite future, the beauty of two private, stream-fed lakes, a temperate year-round climate at 3300-ft. elevation, and 30-minute access to coastal recreation at Laguna, Dana Point,

WHAT'S YOUR PROBLEM?

Tax in Mortgage Payment; He'd Like to Pay His Own

By DON CAMPBELL

It's an automated world, all right, and we are all, individually, being reduced to so many punched holes in a piece of stiff cardboard. What we get at the end of the work week isn't so much a pay check as it is an ear of corn that has been dragged through a pack of field mice, each of which has taken his bite.

Our federal and state income tax liabilities have been "taken care of," our payment to the credit union has been "taken care of," and even our charitable donations have, impersonally, been "taken care of." Can't anyone do anything for himself anymore?

MR. CAMPBELL:

About five years ago we bought a house taking out an FHA mortgage through our local bank. The mortgage was subsequently purchased by another bank. A part of the contract was that a certain amount of each monthly payment was to be placed in escrow to cover the annual property taxes.

We now are in a position where we would like to pay our taxes. In fact, we would have done that in the beginning had we had more experience in home buying. My question is: can an FHA contract be amended to allow for this? Does it make any difference really to the government who pays the taxes as long as they are paid, and arrangements are "firmed" up to this end? — MR. E. Y.

ANSWER: What are you trying to do, rock the boat? Actually, I sympathize with you on this and have always done a little sulking myself about this standard arrangement which seems to imply that we are all too simple-minded to handle our own tax affairs. But that's "The Establishment" for you.

Actually, too, you are right in assuming that the federal government doesn't really care who pays the taxes as long as they are paid — the government's role, after all, is simply that of insuring the lender against loss on the house. As a result, it is the lender who tends to get hard-nosed on the subject.

He isn't about to get into a position where he is forced to take the house back and is prevented from reselling it because there are 10 years of tax liens on file against it.

If you're dead-serious about this, the FHA suggests that you go to the bank holding the mortgage and lay your cards on the table. It's entirely possible, our FHA spokesman feels, that you might be able to work out some sort of a deal where the bank would accept your annual tax receipts — and/or your canceled check for the taxes — as evidence that you have carried out your end of the bargain.

The paperwork might be a little involved, and the mortgage holder isn't really obligated to go along with your scheme. The bank, in fact, will probably think you're out of your gourd, but it's worth a try.

MR. CAMPBELL:

My wife and I own our home under joint tenancy, but we are now in the process of divorcing each other and we are both curious as to whether this tenancy is going to complicate the divorce settlement. This is an amicable divorce, and neither of us wants to see the other hurt by a lot of legal complications. Could you advise upon this? — Mr. F. F.

ANSWER: There's nothing sacred about a joint tenancy and each party to it has the right to break the joint tenancy at any time. In the property settlement accompanying a divorce it is commonplace for the ruling to specify that the house be sold and the proceeds divided — this automatically severs the joint tenancy.

(Campbell welcomes letters. Unfortunately, he is unable to enter into personal correspondence, but will attempt to answer as many letters as possible through his column.)

will have the exclusive use of a recreation pavilion, swimming pool and 'tot lot' plus several small parks planted with mature shrubs and flowers."

Expansion

NEW YORK (UPI) — The volume of commercial offset printing increased to an estimated $3 billion in 1968, according to Gregory Halpern, president of Polychrome Corporation, Yonkers, N.Y., producer of graphic arts supplies. He said the offset method had expanded rapidly over the past decade and had surpassed the volume of letterpress printing in the commercial printing industry. "Based on the technological advances which are being made in the offset field, continued growth is anticipated for the years ahead," Halpern said.

Features included in the sales price include built-in dishwasher, range and oven with a buyer's choice of a self-cleaning oven; wall-to-wall carpeting throughout; sunny California-styled kitchens with pass-through window to patio; full heavy shake roofs; concrete walks and driveways; fencing; professionally landscaped front yards with sprinklers; many other deluxe features; all plus free decorator service.

PICARD (L), BOTELHO... Watch Dispatcher Jerrold Rowley

FIRE CHIEFS ENTHUSIASTIC

4 Cities Join in Emergency

Reporting System From General

General Telephone Co. of California is assisting four Orange County cities by providing them with a modernized emergency reporting system, announced Stan Botelho, Orange County division manager.

The cities of Huntington Beach, Fountain Valley, Westminster, and Seal Beach (60 square miles and 250,000 population) all share in the emergency reporting system through a "joint powers" agreement.

"The 'joint powers' pact was reached by the chiefs in these cities after they discussed what their individual needs were and realized that through a shared system each would benefit."

Fire chiefs in connecting cities who are unanimous in their praise of the system are Mel Ingram from Westminster, Ron Adams from Seal Beach, Mickey Lawson from Fountain Valley, and Ray Picard from Huntington Beach.

"THIS IS the first time to my knowledge in Southern California where four city fire departments have come together to be serviced by one master emergency reporting system," said Ingram.

In Huntington Beach, a total of 96 fire station call boxes have been placed strategically throughout the city so that fire reporting becomes swifter and easier for residents.

Each easily operative call box stands five feet high and is bright red for quick identification. After a person reporting a fire removes the receiver, he is automatically connected with the fire departments' communications headquarters at 704 Lake St., Huntington Beach.

"BEFORE we had joint usage of the emergency reporting system, each city operated separately," Chief Adams stated. "Now we still have our own identity but appreciate common and unique problems. The system has brought us closer together via voice communications."

"None of us could afford this fine system on their own resources," stated Chief Lawson of Fountain Valley. "By combining the requirements of each city into one system, we have come up with a very efficient package with built-in anticipated growth factors."

"General Telephone has offered invaluable assistance," said Chief Picard of Huntington Beach.

"They have provided us with a skilled consultant who regularly visits each fire station, inspecting the emergency reporting equipment, advising what additional service would further improve the overall system and suggesting how we can get the optimum use from what we have."

THE SYSTEM has built-in safeguards. Constant electrical monitoring is provided to give instant notice when a telephone or line is made inoperative through vandalism or other causes.

If the caller hangs up before the dispatcher answers, the call is not lost because line equipment in the console is locked up and can be released only by the person answering the alarm signal.

A staff of fully trained personnel man the emergency reporting system 24 hours.

"They have access not only to the four cities' 12 fire stations in the area but also direct lines to the four cities' police departments, and other emergency services within the area as well as some of the large industries."

Our 2-story Spacemaker has been very well received. Probably too much house for the money.

Take a look below. That's what we call our Spacemaker. We left a portion unfinished (don't worry, you can't see the unfinished portion from the inside or out). This saves you about 2 or 3 thousand dollars on the initial cost. When you have more family or money (or both) you can finish all or part of the unfinished area. The Spacemakers are really big. They come with up to 4 bedrooms and 3 baths. Not counting the Spacemaker area. Spacemakers are too much house for the money.

NAME BRANDS

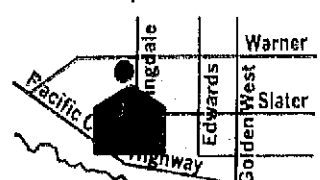

The name "Wm. Lyon" has joined a very distinguished group — the "name brands" — a group of products famous for quality, variety, popularity and value because they have been used by many people, proved satisfactory (usually superior) and recommended to others. The "name brand" reputation of Wm. Lyon homes has been established by the many thousands of people who have lived in them. Today, in countries around the world, "Wm. Lyon" has become the familiar symbol for international housing by the "people who build for people."

Franciscan Fountains

A real "Community of pride" of families who have arrived. The drama of these homes begins with "The Mansion," a scaled down version of living from another era — when there was a hint of an echo as you walked across the floor. Curved staircase floats gracefully down from second story. Private adult "Parent-Saver Retreat" apartment in the master suite. Formal dining room, breakfast nook, family room, separate den or convertible maid's room, self-cleaning oven. 6742 Slater (714) 540-2833.
